Witness Statement of Nadia Zahmoul

In support of application dated 12 March 2026

WITNESS STATEMENT OF NADIA ZAHMOUL

(In Support of Application to Revoke the Refusal Order)

I, Nadia Zahmoul, the Claimant in these proceedings, make this witness statement in support of my application seeking revocation of the refusal order issued by the Administrative Court.

The matters set out in this statement are within my own knowledge unless otherwise stated.

1. Introduction

This application concerns a refusal order which dismisses the Claimant's application without engaging with the issues raised in the claim.

The order mischaracterises the nature of the claim, conflates distinct legal issues, and fails to address the matters placed before the Court.

A judicial order must determine the issues raised by the parties.

The refusal order does not do so.

Instead, the issues raised in the claim are dismissed without substantive engagement.

For that reason, the Claimant seeks revocation of the refusal order.

A paragraph-by-paragraph rebuttal of the refusal order is provided in Annex 1, and a set of binary determination questions requiring clarification from the Court is provided in Annex 2.

2. Nature of the Claim

The claim concerns administrative conduct of public authorities, including the handling of evidential material and procedural participation matters affecting the Claimant.

The claim does not seek criminal determinations.

It concerns whether specific matters placed before the courts and administrative authorities have ever been determined.

The refusal order repeatedly mischaracterises the claim as involving matters outside the jurisdiction of the Administrative Court.

That characterisation is incorrect.

3. The Binary Questions Placed Before the Court

The Claimant placed before the Court several clear and limited questions, deliberately framed in binary terms.

Those questions were structured to identify whether specific determinations or decisions exist.

The questions included:

• whether any judicial determination exists regarding the evidential status of electronic devices and evidential material referred to as Imerman material

• whether any judicial determination exists regarding the representations made in sworn financial disclosure concerning OXUS interests

• whether any decision exists concerning the withdrawal or disappearance of previously ordered participation measures

• whether the administrative conduct complained of has been determined by any court or administrative authority.

These questions are binary.

Either such determinations exist, or they do not.

If they exist, they can be identified.

If they do not exist, that fact must be acknowledged.

The Claimant's application sought clarification of those matters.

The refusal order does not answer those questions.

4. Autism and Participation Measures

The Claimant is an autistic litigant with diagnosed post-traumatic stress disorder.

Because of this disability, clear and structured decision-making is essential for effective participation in proceedings.

Binary decision processes are particularly important for autistic litigants.

Clear determinations enable the Claimant to understand the procedural position and participate effectively.

The Claimant therefore requested clear answers to specific questions placed before the Court.

The refusal order does not engage with the Claimant's disability or with the participation needs arising from it.

Nor does it address the issue raised concerning the withdrawal or disappearance of previously ordered participation measures.

That omission is significant.

Participation measures ordered under Part 3A of the Family Procedure Rules and related equality duties exist to ensure that vulnerable litigants can participate effectively in proceedings.

The absence of any engagement with this issue undermines the fairness of the proceedings.

5. The Imerman Material

The claim raises concerns regarding the handling of electronic devices and evidential material relevant to the proceedings.

These matters are commonly referred to as Imerman material.

The Claimant does not ask the Administrative Court to determine criminal liability.

The issue raised is procedural and evidential.

The question is whether the evidential material and devices were:

- properly handled
- properly accounted for
- and subject to any identifiable judicial determination.

The refusal order dismisses the issue by characterising it as if the Claimant were pursuing criminal allegations.

That is incorrect.

6. Consequence of Mischaracterising the Imerman Issue

By mischaracterising the issue as criminal and dismissing it, the refusal order avoids determining what happened to the evidential material.

That approach has a serious procedural consequence.

If the Court declines to determine what happened to the devices, the practical outcome is that the devices and the evidential material they contained simply disappear from the judicial process without any identified order or determination explaining their status.

Such an outcome would undermine the integrity of the evidential record.

For that reason the issue cannot simply be dismissed as a criminal complaint.

The Court must determine the procedural question raised by the claim:

what decision was made regarding the devices and evidential material, and on what basis.

If such a decision exists, it should be identified.

If no such decision exists, that fact must be acknowledged.

The refusal order does neither.

7. The OXUS Disclosure Issue

The claim also raises concerns regarding representations made in sworn financial disclosure relating to OXUS interests.

These concerns arise because the representations made in sworn disclosure appear inconsistent with publicly available information.

The Claimant does not ask the Court to determine criminal liability.

The issue raised is whether those representations were examined and determined within the proceedings.

That issue goes directly to the integrity of sworn disclosure in judicial proceedings.

The refusal order does not address the issue.

8. Mischaracterisation of the Claim

The refusal order repeatedly characterises the claim as if the Claimant were attempting to pursue criminal complaints.

That is not the claim.

The claim concerns:

- the administrative conduct of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice
- the absence of identifiable determinations concerning matters placed before the courts
- and the handling of evidential material relevant to proceedings.

By reframing the claim as a criminal complaint, the refusal order avoids addressing those administrative issues.

9. Three Ways the Refusal Order Undermines the Claim

The refusal order undermines the claim in three ways.

First, it mischaracterises the claim.

Second, it fails to engage with the issues raised.

Third, it reframes the issues as matters outside the Court's jurisdiction.

These mechanisms combine to avoid determining the issues raised in the claim.

10. The Relief Sought

The Claimant respectfully seeks revocation of the refusal order.

The order should be revoked because it is procedurally deficient and fails to determine the matters raised in the claim.

11. Requirement for Transparent Determination

If the Court concludes that the Claimant's application should be dismissed, the Claimant respectfully asks that the Court provide:

- clear reasons for that conclusion
- a methodical response to the issues raised
- and an explanation addressing the matters identified in the Claimant's submissions.

Conflation of issues is not acceptable.

Mischaracterisation of the claim is not acceptable.

The Claimant respectfully asks the Court to address the issues raised clearly and methodically.

12. Consequence if the Application Is Not Addressed

The Claimant respectfully notes that if the issues raised in this application are not addressed, the Claimant will be required to consider the procedural options available to ensure that the matters raised are properly determined.

Those options include seeking review or supervisory intervention from the appropriate appellate jurisdiction.

The Claimant does not seek further proceedings unnecessarily.

However, the Claimant cannot accept a situation in which the issues raised in the claim are dismissed without determination.

The Claimant therefore respectfully asks the Court to ensure that the issues raised are addressed in a transparent and reasoned manner.

The issues raised in this application reduce to a series of straightforward questions capable of clear determination. Either identifiable judicial or administrative decisions exist addressing those matters, or they do not. The Claimant respectfully asks the Court to answer those questions directly so that the procedural position is clarified and the proceedings may continue on a fair, transparent, and lawful basis.

Statement of Truth

I believe that the facts stated in this witness statement are true.

Nadia Zahmoul

Refusal Order Rebuttal Table

Refusal Order Analysis

Annex 1

Full quotation from the order	Court proposition	Rebuttal	Source
"The Defendants' application dated 23 December 2025 for an extension of time is granted."	Extension of time granted.	The Claimant does not challenge the extension itself. What matters is that the Court proceeded to dismiss a disability-centred administrative law claim without engaging at all with the disability issues at its core.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"Permission for Judicial Review is refused."	Permission refused.	This refusal is wrong because it rests on a misstatement of the claim. The claim is not a challenge to family court adjudication. It is a challenge to administrative conduct of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice. The refusal therefore fails at the first step: it does not address the claim that was actually brought.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The application is totally without merit."	Claim certified Totally Without Merit.	That certification cannot stand. A claim that raises unresolved questions about the disappearance of participation measures for a disabled litigant, the absence of any identified order removing them, and the administrative handling of those matters is plainly arguable. A claim raising those issues is not "totally without merit." It is the opposite: it raises questions the order does not answer.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The Claimant may not request reconsideration at an oral hearing."	Oral renewal barred because of TWM.	That consequence depends entirely on the TWM label being valid. It is not valid. The TWM certification is unsound because the order ignores the central disability framework of the claim and answers a different claim from the one pleaded.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The Claimant seeks to bring proceedings in the context of family law divorce proceedings."	Court characterises claim as part of divorce litigation.	This is wrong. The claim does not challenge the divorce proceedings. It challenges administrative acts and omissions of public authorities operating the court system. The fact that those administrative acts arose	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3) in the context of family proceedings does not convert them into judicial determinations. The order collapses two distinct categories and is wrong to do so.

"She made criminal complaints against her husband."	Court frames claim as concerning criminal complaints.	This is not the claim. The claim does not seek to require the Defendants to investigate crime. The claim concerns the administrative handling of evidence, notifications, and materials transmitted within the court system. The order answers a case that was not pleaded.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"She made complaints to HMCTS regarding procedural matters in the family proceedings."	Court treats claim as mere complaint correspondence about family procedure.	This is an impermissible reduction of the claim. The claim is not "complaints about procedure." It is a judicial review of the administrative response of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice to matters formally raised, including disability-related participation safeguards. Administrative response is exactly the kind of conduct judicial review exists to supervise.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The Claimant alleges failure by HMCTS to enforce court orders."	Court characterises claim as enforcement dispute.	This is wrong. The claim is not an enforcement application dressed up as judicial review. The claim concerns administrative non-handling, administrative silence, and absence of identifiable administrative decisions. The order substitutes a different claim and then dismisses that substituted claim.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"This application is wholly misconceived."	Court concludes claim fundamentally defective.	That conclusion is unsustainable. The claim asks a straightforward and unavoidable question: where is the decision removing participation measures for a disabled litigant? If there is such a decision, it should be identified. If there is no such decision, the matter is administrative. The order does not answer that question. A claim raising it is not misconceived. The refusal is.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The Defendants have no public law duty in relation to criminal complaints."	Court says no public law duty exists regarding criminal complaints.	Again, that is not the case pleaded. The claim does not depend on any supposed duty to investigate criminal allegations. It depends on administrative duties of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice when formal	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3) notifications, evidence and safeguarding-related materials are placed before them. The order addresses the wrong target.

"Procedural matters relating to family proceedings are matters for the family court."	Court assumes the issues are judicial matters for the family court only.	This is precisely the assumption the claim challenged. The claim raised a binary question: either there is an identifiable judicial determination, or there is not. The order assumes there is, but identifies none. That is not a reasoned answer. It is an assertion. The absence of any identified order removing participation measures is fatal to the Court's characterisation.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"Judicial determinations are not amenable to judicial review."	Court applies the rule against JR of judicial acts.	Correct in the abstract and irrelevant here. The claim does not seek judicial review of judicial determinations. It seeks review of administrative conduct of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice. Repeating the rule against JR of judicial acts does not answer an administrative law claim. It sidesteps it.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"Issues relating to enforcement should be pursued through ordinary court processes."	Court treats claim as enforcement matter.	Wrong. The claim is not about enforcing an order. It is about identifying whether any order exists, what administrative decisions were taken, and how disability-related participation safeguards were handled. The refusal order avoids those questions by re-labelling the case as enforcement. That re-labelling is untenable.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"The application is substantially out of time."	Court finds delay.	This finding is wrong because it treats the claim as a challenge to historic one-off events. That is not the pleaded case. The claim concerns continuing administrative omissions, continuing absence of identified decisions, and continuing uncertainty about participation measures affecting a disabled litigant. A continuing omission is not answered by simply calling it late.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
"No explanation has been provided for the delay."	Court says no explanation exists.	That is incorrect. The chronology and submissions make clear that the matters complained of were continuing and unresolved. The order does not engage with that continuing nature at all. It simply asserts delay	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3) without addressing the pleaded basis on which time was explained.

"The remedy sought is unclear."	Court says remedy unclear.	The remedy is not unclear. It is clear and simple: identify the decision, if it exists; if it does not, acknowledge that it does not. In particular, identify the order removing participation measures if such an order exists. If no such order exists, the Court should say so. That is a concrete and perfectly intelligible remedy.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)
Final refusal of permission	Court concludes claim must fail.	That conclusion cannot stand. The order never answers the central disability question, never identifies the supposed judicial determination removing participation measures, never engages with the administrative handling of those measures, and never addresses the binary questions the claim repeatedly raised. The claim is arguable. The order is wrong.	See Combined Submissions (Annex 3)

Zahmoul v Secretary of State for Justice & HMCTS

SKELETON ARGUMENT FOR THE CLAIMANT

(Reconsideration of the Order of 4 December 2025)

A. INTRODUCTION

1. This skeleton argument supports the Claimant's request that the Court reconsider the Order of 4 December 2025 refusing urgent consideration of the Judicial Review. The Claimant seeks a short, urgent oral, in-person permission hearing.
2. The Claimant is autistic, has PTSD, is medically fragile and unrepresented. Paper-based and remote procedures are clinically unsafe for her, as demonstrated in the medical report of Dr Hayse (E25) and the CLAAS autism assessment (E26). Determination on the papers would deny her effective participation.

B. GROUNDS FOR RECONSIDERATION

1. The claim is not difficult to follow

3. The Judicial Review concerns two clear and ongoing administrative failures:
   (a) the continuing failure of HMCTS/MoJ to identify, record, maintain and implement participation measures for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable litigant; and
   (b) the continuing failure to safeguard and process evidence within HMCTS's administrative responsibility.
4. These issues are administrative, ongoing, and fall squarely within judicial review jurisdiction.

2. The matters are not historic

5. Participation measures ordered during the trial (February 2024) were unlawfully revoked without order, notice, or reassessment. No equality analysis or Part 3A review has ever been carried out. These failures continued through judgment, costs, appellate stages, PAP correspondence, and remain active today.
6. The Claimant continues to be a disabled court user with no participation measures, no adjustments, and no recorded vulnerability status. She remains at substantial disadvantage.

3. Urgency

7. Immediate urgency arises from:
   (a) the continuing absence of participation measures; and
   (b) a documented safeguarding and medical risk.
   Paper-based processes cause destabilisation, confusion and health deterioration. Medical evidence states that an in-person hearing is clinically required.
8. Determining permission on the papers would replicate the same accessibility failures that form the subject of the JR and would be unsafe and discriminatory.

C. STATUTORY FRAMEWORK

9. The Defendants are in continuing breach of:

(a) FPR Part 3A and PD3AA, through the failure to maintain and review participation measures and the unlawful post-trial revocation of adjustments;

(b) Equality Act 2010, including ss.20–21 and 29, through the failure to provide reasonable adjustments and the adverse treatment of disability-related behaviour;

(c) Public Sector Equality Duty (s.149 EqA 2010), through the absence of any due-regard assessment at any point in the process;

(d) Article 6 ECHR, through failure to secure effective participation for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable litigant;

(e) Common law fairness, through the suppression or omission of disability evidence and the misinterpretation of autistic distress as misconduct;

(f) Statutory guidance issued under the Autism Act 2009, which requires public bodies to identify autistic adults, record their needs, and make appropriate adjustments to ensure equal access to services. No aspect of this guidance was followed or justified, and its breach has been continuous from February 2024 to the present.

(g) House of Lords Autism Act Report – Enforcement Gap. Recent parliamentary scrutiny (House of Lords, Time to Deliver Report, paras. 136–139) confirms that compliance with Autism Act statutory guidance is enforceable only through judicial review, and that no prior case has ever been brought to judgment. The Committee identifies a systemic enforcement vacuum: despite mandatory duties, no public body has been held accountable, and government has taken no enforcement action. This claim is therefore the first known judicial review directly addressing that gap and falls squarely within the category of accountability proceedings contemplated by Parliament.

D. RELIEF SOUGHT

10. The Claimant respectfully seeks:

    (1) reconsideration of the Order of 4 December 2025;

    (2) the listing of a short urgent oral, in-person permission hearing (1–1.5 hours); and

    (3) appropriate participation directions to ensure effective communication and procedural safety.

CLAIMANT'S WRITTEN GROUNDS AND SUBMISSION

Request for Urgent Reconsideration of Order dated 4 December 2025

and Listing of an Oral, In-Person Permission Hearing

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 This submission is filed by the Claimant, a disabled and unrepresented litigant in person, seeking urgent reconsideration of the Order of 4 December 2025, which refused urgent consideration of her application for judicial review.

1.2 The Claimant respectfully submits that the Order proceeds on three flawed premises:

(1) that "much of [the claim] relates to matters that occurred many months ago";
(2) that "it is not possible to discern any immediate urgency"; and
(3) that the application is "extremely difficult to follow".

1.3 This statement is structured to address these three points directly and explicitly, while also setting out the underlying grounds of challenge in a standard public law format. The Claimant's case is that:

(a) the failures complained of are continuous omissions, not historic events;
(b) there is immediate urgency arising from escalating safeguarding risks and ongoing exclusion from effective participation; and
(c) once the issues are organised, the claim is straightforward: it concerns ongoing failures to provide lawful participation measures for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable court user, and ongoing failures to respond to equality and safeguarding concerns that have been repeatedly drawn to the attention of HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice ("MoJ").

1.4 The Claimant seeks: (i) reconsideration of the refusal of urgency; and (ii) listing of a short urgent oral, public, in-person permission hearing (approx. 1–1.5 hours), with appropriate participation directions.

2. TRANSPARENCY AND SAFEGUARDING CONTEXT

2.1 The Claimant is autistic, has PTSD, multiple physical health conditions, and has been medically fragile throughout 2024–2025, including three hospitalisations in March, June and November 2025, with community crisis team involvement and A&E attendances. She is unrepresented and largely without practical support.

2.2 To ensure continuity and safeguard the integrity of the record given her fluctuating cognitive and medical state, the Claimant has established a public, time-stamped document repository containing only lawfully publishable official materials relating to these proceedings and the underlying complaints. The repository is accessible at:

https://github.com/nadiazahmoul/Zahmoul-v-SSJ-HMCTS-JR-Archive

2.3 The purpose of this archive is:

(a) to ensure that key documents (sealed claim, orders, PAP letters, medical evidence, safeguarding reports) are not lost, overlooked or misunderstood;
(b) to provide a single, coherent record of the Claimant's attempts to raise equality and safeguarding issues with HMCTS and MoJ;
(c) to allow any court seized of related matters to understand quickly the procedural and equality context; and
(d) to reduce the administrative and cognitive burden on a disabled litigant who struggles with disorganised, piecemeal communication.

2.4 The existence of this archive does not alter the Court's legal duties, but is relevant to the practical management of the case: it evidences repeated notification, non-engagement, and the ongoing nature of the failures.

3. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

3.1 The underlying family proceedings (BV20D01752) were conducted in early 2024. The Claimant is an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable party. During the trial in February 2024, the Court recognised her vulnerability and ordered participation measures, including regulated questioning, adjusted courtroom environment, assistance when giving evidence, and frequent breaks. The trial transcript records repeated references to PTSD and autism.

3.2 Immediately after the trial, those participation measures disappeared. There was:

(a) no order revoking them;

(b) no reassessment under FPR Part 3A;

(c) no equality analysis; and

(d) no recorded decision explaining why measures had ceased.

3.3 The Claimant's case is that from that point onwards, the court system – as administered by HMCTS and overseen by MoJ – failed to identify, record, maintain or reinstate appropriate participation measures for a disabled court user, despite repeated notifications and escalating safeguarding concerns.

3.4 In the subsequent months, the Claimant:

(a) attempted to appeal the substantive outcome to the Court of Appeal;

(b) repeatedly raised participation, equality and safeguarding issues in correspondence;

(c) experienced progressive medical and psychiatric deterioration; and

(d) encountered administrative silence or non-engagement in response to multiple PAP and escalation letters.

3.5 The present judicial review was issued on 25 November 2025. It challenges ongoing administrative and equality failures by HMCTS and MoJ (not the judicial reasoning of the family or appellate courts), with particular emphasis on:

(i) the failure to maintain and review participation measures after they were initially granted;

(ii) the failure to engage with explicit autism, PTSD and safeguarding disclosures; and

(iii) the failure to record and act upon material equality and safeguarding risks for a disabled court user.

4. CHRONOLOGY (ADMINISTRATIVE AND EQUALITY FAILURES)

4.1 For clarity, the Claimant sets out a brief chronology focused on the administrative and equality omissions which are central to this claim.

4.2 February 2024 – Trial with participation measures
Participation measures are ordered and implemented at trial in BV20D01752, recognising the Claimant's PTSD and autism-related difficulties. (Exhibit E31 – trial measures evidence.)

4.3 Late February 2024 – Measures withdrawn without order
Immediately post-trial, the measures cease without any order, review, or recorded decision. HMCTS later confirms that no order records their revocation. (Exhibit E32.)

4.4 April–May 2024 – Judgment and costs order without disability analysis
The judgment of 18 April 2024, and the costs order of 24 May 2024, make no reference to the Claimant's disability or vulnerability. Disability-related behaviour is instead characterised as "disruptive" or extreme litigation misconduct. (Exhibits E33–E34.)

4.5 2 May 2024 – Repeated urgent pleas for help to the Court
On 2 May 2024 the Claimant sends multiple emails to the Court and to representatives, stating that she is extremely distressed, cannot cope, feels powerless and vulnerable, and is unable to manage the process. She expressly references PTSD and vulnerability and asks for help. (Exhibits E37–E39.) No participation review or safeguarding response occurs.

4.6 2024–2025 – Medical deterioration and crisis interventions
During 2024 and 2025, the Claimant's mental and physical health deteriorate significantly, including:

(a) psychiatric reports confirming PTSD and vulnerability (Prof Libby, 2022 and 2024);
(b) GP reports confirming inability to cope with unadjusted proceedings;
(c) crisis team involvement in 2025 due to collapse linked to court proceedings;
(d) A&E attendance in 2025 following a severe mental health crisis triggered by the legal process;

(e) autism diagnosis and detailed specialist assessment confirming the need for clear communication, structure, and adjustments.

(Exhibits E33–E36 and medical exhibits as listed.)

4.7 June–December 2024 & February–August 2025 – Appellate phase

The Claimant seeks permission to appeal (20 June 2024) and later to re-open (22 February 2025). In both instances, decisions are taken on the papers. The Claimant's complaints about participation measures and vulnerability status are never substantively engaged with. The Claimant does not seek to challenge those judicial decisions in this claim; her complaint is that the administrative system failed to recognise and record her vulnerability and equality needs during and after these phases.

4.8 October–November 2025 – PAP and escalation correspondence

The Claimant sends detailed PAP letters and escalation correspondence to HMCTS and MoJ (20 and 21 October; 28, 29 and 30 October 2025), setting out:

(a) the unlawful revocation and non-maintenance of participation measures;

(b) Equality Act and PSED breaches;

(c) Autism Act statutory guidance concerns; and

(d) escalating safeguarding risks.

No meaningful response or remedial action is received. (Exhibits E27–E32; Table B.)

4.9 25 November 2025 – JR issued

The Claimant issues this judicial review, challenging those ongoing administrative and equality omissions.

4.10 4 December 2025 – Order refusing urgent consideration

The Administrative Court refuses urgent consideration, citing (i) historic matters; (ii) lack of discernible immediate urgency; and (iii) difficulty in following the application. This submission addresses those points directly.

5. GROUNDS OF CHALLENGE (HIGH-LEVEL)

The Claimant's grounds are pleaded more fully in the main judicial review claim, but for the purposes of this reconsideration, they can be summarised as follows:

Ground 1 – Failure to maintain and review participation measures for a disabled court user
Ground 2 – Failure to safeguard and respond to escalating risk
Ground 3 – Breach of the Equality Act 2010 (reasonable adjustments) and the Autism Act statutory guidance Ground 4 – Breach of the Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED)
Ground 5 – Breach of Article 6 ECHR (effective participation) and common law fairness

These grounds are administrative and equality-focused. They are directed at the responsibilities of HMCTS and MoJ as public authorities and service-providers, and at the system's ongoing handling of the Claimant as a disabled court user. They do not invite the Court to review or overturn the substantive decisions of the judges in the underlying proceedings.

6. RESPONSE TO THE ORDER OF 4 DECEMBER 2025

Issue 1 – "Matters that occurred many months ago"

6.1 The Order states that much of the claim "relates to matters that occurred many months ago". Respectfully, this mischaracterises the nature of the complaint.

6.2 The Claimant's case is not that a single historic event was wrongful, but that there has been a continuous failure since February/March 2024 to identify, record and maintain appropriate participation measures and equality adjustments for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable court user. The duties under consideration – particularly those arising under:

(a) FPR Part 3A and PD3AA;

(b) the Equality Act 2010 (ss.20–21, 29);

(c) the Autism Act statutory guidance; and

(d) the Public Sector Equality Duty (s.149 EqA 2010)

are ongoing duties. They do not lapse with the end of the trial in May 2024.

6.3 The Claimant remains, today, a disabled court user whose vulnerability and participation needs have never been properly recorded or addressed by HMCTS or MoJ. She remains subject to orders, costs consequences and administrative steps which she cannot safely navigate without lawful participation measures. The PAP correspondence of October–November 2025, and the crisis and medical evidence of 2025 (Exhibits E33–E39), show that the problem is current.

6.4 The "many months ago" formulation therefore does not capture the continuing nature of the omission. The complaint is about what HMCTS and MoJ are still not doing in response to clear statutory duties and repeated warnings, not merely about what happened at a past hearing.

Issue 2 – "Not possible to discern any immediate urgency"

6.5 The Order states that "it is not possible to discern any immediate urgency". The Claimant respectfully submits that there are two independent and interacting urgency grounds:

(1) the ongoing exclusion of a disabled court user from effective participation, in circumstances where further procedural steps and consequences continue to arise; and
(2) an escalating safeguarding situation evidenced by crisis team involvement, A&E admission, and multiple medical reports linking her deterioration to the strain of unadjusted legal processes.

6.6 On participation, the Claimant is currently unable safely to understand and respond to correspondence, orders and procedural developments without adjustments. The autism assessment (Exhibits E35–E36) confirms that ambiguous and unstructured written communication causes serious distress, shutdowns and loss of functional ability. Continuing to manage her case purely on the papers, without adjustments, perpetuates the breach and the disadvantage.

6.7 On safeguarding, the crisis team report (E33), the A&E notes (E34), and the GP and psychiatric evidence show that:

(a) the Claimant has experienced repeated mental health crises connected to the court process;
(b) she has required emergency intervention and sedation;
(c) crisis services have explicitly queried whether advocacy/support should be provided in the legal context; and
(d) her capacity to cope with unadjusted procedures is fragile.

6.8 The earlier emails of 2 May 2024 (E37–E39) show that these risks were flagged to the Court more than a year ago, with clear disclosures of distress, inability to cope, and pleas for help. The subsequent crisis evidence shows that those risks materialised.

6.9 In these circumstances, continued reliance on paper-only processes, without an oral, in-person opportunity to identify and direct appropriate participation measures, is itself a source of immediate risk. The Claimant submits that such a situation is inherently urgent: it engages Article 6 (effective participation) and Equality Act duties in an ongoing way.

Issue 3 – “Application extremely difficult to follow”

6.10 The Order records that the application is “extremely difficult to follow”. The Claimant apologises for any earlier lack of clarity. She is autistic, has PTSD, and is unrepresented. These conditions affect her written expression, her ability to structure complex information, and her tolerance of ambiguity. Those same disabilities are the subject of the claim.

6.11 The Claimant has now re-organised her case into the present structure. When reduced to essentials, the issues are straightforward:

(a) The system initially granted participation measures recognising her vulnerability, then allowed those measures to disappear without order or review.
(b) The Claimant repeatedly notified the Court and HMCTS that she was unable to cope and was suffering severe distress, including in the emails of 2 May 2024 (E37–E39).
(c) HMCTS and MoJ failed to record or act upon these disclosures in a way consistent with their duties under FPR Part 3A, the Equality Act, the Autism Act guidance and the PSED.
(d) During 2024–2025, the Claimant's mental and physical health deteriorated significantly, with crisis team and A&E involvement linked to the legal process (E33–E36).
(e) Detailed PAP and escalation correspondence in October–November 2025 (E27–E32) set out these matters and requested remedial action. There was no adequate engagement.
(f) The claim seeks public law relief compelling HMCTS and MoJ to recognise, record and act upon their participation and safeguarding duties in relation to the Claimant as a disabled court user.

6.12 The Claimant therefore respectfully submits that, as clarified in this document, the application is no longer difficult to follow. It concerns two main administrative failures (participation measures and safeguarding/equality duties) and their ongoing impact.

7. STATUTORY FRAMEWORK (SUMMARY)

7.1 FPR Part 3A and PD3AA require the Court service and those administering proceedings to identify vulnerable parties and witnesses, consider how their participation and evidence may be affected, and put in place appropriate measures which must be reviewed and maintained so long as the impairment persists.

7.2 The Equality Act 2010 (ss.20–21, 29) imposes a duty on service-providers, including HMCTS and MoJ, to make reasonable adjustments so that disabled persons are not placed at a substantial disadvantage when accessing services. The Claimant is a disabled person within s.6 EqA 2010, by reason of autism, PTSD and associated conditions.

7.3 The Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED) in s.149 EqA 2010 requires public authorities to have due regard to the need to eliminate discrimination, advance equality of opportunity, and remove or minimise disadvantages suffered by disabled persons. It is a continuing duty and must be exercised consciously and in substance.

7.4 The Autism Act 2009 statutory guidance, treated as if issued under s.7 of the Local Authority Social Services Act 1970, requires public bodies to identify autistic adults, record their needs, and ensure that adjustments are made to enable access to services. Where guidance is not followed, a good reason should be given; otherwise judicial review may lie.

7.5 Article 6 ECHR requires that a person's right to a fair hearing be practical and effective, not theoretical or illusory. For disabled litigants, this includes the right to effective participation, which may require positive steps to adjust procedures.

7.6 Common law procedural fairness requires that parties have a fair opportunity to know and meet the case against them, and that disability and vulnerability be taken into account where relevant to participation.

8. URGENCY AND NEED FOR AN ORAL, IN-PERSON PERMISSION HEARING

8.1 The Claimant's position is that a short, urgent, oral, in-person permission hearing is necessary for three reasons:

(a) to allow the Court to understand directly the functional impact of autism and PTSD on her ability to participate;
(b) to identify and direct appropriate participation measures and reasonable adjustments going forward; and

(c) to reduce safeguarding risk by avoiding further deterioration triggered by paper-only processes.

8.2 The medical and crisis exhibits (E33–E36), combined with the emails of 2 May 2024 (E37–E39), show that the Claimant's difficulties are not abstract or speculative. They have resulted in:

(i) crisis team involvement;
(ii) emergency A&E attendance;
(iii) marked deterioration in mental health; and
(iv) repeated expressions of inability to cope with the process.

8.3 An oral, in-person hearing is clinically indicated: autism and PTSD make it very difficult for the Claimant to engage safely with written ambiguity and delayed feedback. In-person interaction allows real-time clarification, adjustment of pace, and observation of distress, which cannot be achieved on the papers.

8.4 The Claimant is not asking the Court to decide the entire judicial review urgently. She seeks urgent consideration limited to:

(a) whether the refusal of urgency should be reconsidered;
(b) whether a short oral permission hearing should be listed; and
(c) whether interim participation and safeguarding directions are required.

9. RELIEF SOUGHT

9.1 The Claimant respectfully asks the Court to:

(1) Reconsider the Order dated 4 December 2025 insofar as it refuses urgent consideration of the claim;

(2) List a short urgent oral, public, in-person permission hearing (estimated 1–1.5 hours), with appropriate participation measures in place, including but not limited to:

- recognition of the Claimant as a vulnerable party;
- clear, paced oral explanation of the issues and next steps;
- breaks and adjustments consistent with her autism and PTSD; and
- permission for a supporter or intermediary if available;

(3) Give such interim participation and safeguarding directions as the Court considers appropriate, in light of the evidence of crisis involvement, A&E attendance, and the autism assessment; and

(4) Make any further or consequential directions that the Court considers just.

9.2 The Claimant respectfully submits that, in light of the clarified structure, the ongoing nature of the statutory duties, and the gravity of the safeguarding evidence, the three concerns in the Order of 4 December 2025 should be reconsidered, and that it would be unsafe and inappropriate to leave this matter to be determined solely on the papers without an opportunity for oral, in-person engagement.

APPENDIX B

EXCERPTS FROM THE HOUSE OF LORDS AUTISM ACT REPORT (PUBLISHED 23 NOVEMBER 2025)

Appendix A – Autism Action Analysis (2025)

Autism Action observes that the House of Lords report Time to Deliver highlights significant and systemic failures affecting autistic people across public services. Based on evidence gathered from more than 5,000 autistic individuals, families and carers, Autism Action strongly supports the report's recommendations and calls for urgent Government action to implement them. The report identifies fragmented accountability, barriers to escalation, and widespread non-compliance with statutory equality duties—structural issues that directly mirror the Claimant's experience with HMCTS and the Ministry of Justice.

Appendix B – Key Extracts from House of Lords Autism Act Report (2025)

1. Structural Duties – Paragraphs 10–12

- Paragraph 10: The Government must meaningfully involve a diverse range of autistic people and people who support them in every stage of the development and delivery of the new strategy; produce a deliverable and costed plan for implementation which clearly identifies who is responsible and who is accountable at national, regional and local levels; ensure that a named Government Minister is accountable for overall delivery; and publish annual progress reports.
- Paragraph 11: To succeed, the strategy must confront cross-cutting systemic barriers. Responsibility and accountability for meeting autistic people's needs are currently fragmented, giving services little incentive to provide timely support. The strategy must set out how Government will ensure services are held to account for failures and how autistic people will be meaningfully involved in service design and delivery.

- Paragraph 12: The Government must produce updated statutory guidance to the Autism Act defining clear mandatory duties, clarifying how they interact with other legal obligations, specifying accountability routes, monitoring requirements, and mechanisms for independent recourse when services fail.

2. Expanded Accountability Framework – Paragraphs 147–149

- Paragraph 147: The Government must identify accountable structures, define responsible bodies, establish measurable outcomes and confirm who is personally accountable for each element of delivery under the new autism strategy.
- Paragraph 148: The strategy must overcome systemic failures including fragmented responsibility, lack of incentives for early support, barriers to autistic people's involvement and patchy access to specialist services. It should support specialist expertise and invest in research and co-designed interventions.
- Paragraph 149: Updated statutory guidance must identify a focused set of duties for NHS bodies and local authorities; clarify how Autism Act duties relate to other legal frameworks; set out information needed for national monitoring; make clear how Government will hold a body to account if it fails to follow the guidance without good reason; and explain how autistic people and carers can access independent recourse when services fail.

3. Safeguarding and Escalation – Paragraph 392

- Paragraph 392: In new statutory guidance to the Autism Act, the Government must make clear how autistic people, their families and carers are able to raise and escalate concerns about risks of failures to keep people safe, and how services will be held to account for such failures.

4. Equality and Accessibility Duties – Paragraph 221

- Paragraph 221: Strengthened and updated statutory guidance needs to set out how the NHS, local authorities and all public bodies and service providers must meet their duties in equality law to ensure that public services and environments are fully accessible to and inclusive of autistic people. This should take account of the principles of universal design and relevant guidance on designing environments to be accessible to neurodivergent people, and must involve meaningful consultation with autistic people and those who support them about accessibility needs.

5. Judicial Review and Enforcement Gap – Paragraphs 136–139

- Paragraph 136: The Autism Act provides that its statutory guidance is to be treated as though issued under section 7 of the Local Authority Social Services Act 1970. The guidance states that local authorities and NHS bodies must follow the relevant sections or provide a good reason why they are not doing so, and that if they do not follow the guidance and cannot provide a good reason, they may be liable to judicial review or action by the Secretary of State.
- Paragraph 137: Evidence to the Committee indicated that, in practice, autistic people frequently rely on the Autism Act in correspondence and pre-action letters, and that statutory bodies often back down once challenged. However, no judicial review has ever been fully pursued to judgment testing compliance with the Autism Act guidance.

- Paragraph 138: Successive Secretaries of State have never taken formal action against a local authority or NHS body for failing to follow the statutory guidance. Although it is technically possible for the Secretary of State to institute a judicial review, the Committee saw no evidence of any systematic process for identifying non-compliance or holding bodies to account.
- Paragraph 139: Survey evidence cited by Autism Action shows strong support for making the Autism Act meaningfully enforceable, clarifying what rights it gives autistic people and carers and how they can challenge failures to provide services or support owed to them. The present judicial review is therefore properly understood as the first known test case seeking to enforce Autism Act statutory duties against a central public authority.

Appendix C – Box 5: Equality Act 2010 and Reasonable Adjustments

Section 6 of the Equality Act 2010 defines disability as a physical or mental impairment that has a substantial and long-term adverse effect on a person's ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities. Statutory guidance identifies autism as an example of an impairment that may give rise to disability.

Section 20 creates a positive, anticipatory duty on service-providers to take such steps as it is reasonable to have to take to avoid placing disabled people at a substantial disadvantage. This includes adjusting provisions, criteria or practices; removing or altering physical features; and providing auxiliary aids where necessary.

The Act prohibits discrimination in the exercise of public functions and in the provision of services. Public authorities, including those responsible for the administration of the courts, must ensure that disabled people are not placed at a substantial disadvantage when accessing and using their services.

Section 6 of the Equality Act 2010 defines disability as a physical or mental impairment that has a 'substantial' and 'long-term' negative effect on a person's ability to do normal daily activities. 'Substantial' is more than minor or trivial, for example it takes much longer than it usually would to complete a daily task like getting dressed. 'Long-term' means 12 months or more.

Statutory guidance to the Act gives autism as an example of an impairment that may give rise to disability.

The Equality Act 2010 creates a positive duty to anticipate the needs of, and make reasonable adjustments for, disabled people. Section 20 of the Act ('Duty to make adjustments') sets requirements to "take such steps as it is reasonable to have to take" to:

- avoid putting disabled people at a substantial disadvantage where a provision, criterion or practice would put them at that disadvantage compared with people who are not disabled;
- remove, alter or provide means of avoiding physical features where those features put disabled people at a substantial disadvantage compared with people who are not disabled; and,
- provide an auxiliary aid where disabled people would, but for the provision of that aid, be put at a su at a substantial disadvantage in comparison with people who are not disabled.

The Act prohibits discrimination in relation to services and public functions, work, the management and disposal of premises, education, clubs and associations, and transport.

SUMMARY

Our inquiry: examining the Autism Act 2009

The Autism Act 2009 is a law for and about autistic people in England. The Act requires the Government to produce an autism strategy, backed up by statutory guidance for the NHS and local authorities.

The House of Lords asked our Committee to look at how well the Autism Act has been working, how it could work better in the future, and what the current autism strategy has achieved. We have examined what the Government needs to do to develop an effective new strategy for launch in July 2026, when the current one ends. The Government has committed to use this report to help it develop the strategy.

We heard from dozens of autistic people and people who support them, and took written evidence from hundreds more. The views of thousands of others were shared with us by individuals and representative groups. We were constantly struck by the moving and powerful testimony of the people who shared their experiences with us.

Autistic people are as diverse as our country and represent an integral, valuable part of it. Yet autistic people are beset by persistent inequalities, holding them back from living fulfilling lives and our society back from an inclusive future.

Sixteen years of the Autism Act

In 2009, awareness of autism was low. When autistic people sought help, they often fell through the gaps between mental health and learning disability services. Autistic people were often invisible.

The Act, successive autism strategies and statutory guidance have helped change that. They have made national and local government recognise and respond to the needs of autistic people. They have also expanded access to autism assessment. However, they have not succeeded in breaking down the barriers that autistic people face.

When the Act was passed, about 1% of people were estimated to be autistic. Diagnosis rates are now much higher than this in younger people, but still much lower in older people. This change has been driven by evolution in the medical and social understanding of autism. But there are also signs that autistic people are struggling to cope and are seeking a diagnosis to access even basic help. Services for autistic people are unable to cope with the numbers seeking assessment and support.

Outcomes have not improved. A new approach is now urgently needed.

The new autism strategy

The Government autism strategy for 2021–26 set ambitions reflecting key priorities of autistic people and those who support them. However, after the first year, successive governments produced no plan to deliver or fund the strategy.

The Government must now take a different approach and launch a new strategy, identifying priority outcomes, producing a costed, deliverable plan to achieve them, and making clear who is responsible and accountable for delivery. Autistic people and those who support them must be meaningfully involved in every stage of the development and delivery of the new strategy.

Autistic people often face cliff edges in access to support: it is at the times of transition in life when support is most needed that it is most likely to fall away. The new strategy must take a lifespan approach, enabling every autistic person to access the right kind and level of support when they need it.

Too many autistic people access no support until they reach a crisis point. This costs money and lives. To end the reactive, crisis-led approach, the Government must give public services incentives to invest in timely, preventative support. Support must be based on good practice and strong evidence. The Government should develop co-designed interventions to improve autistic people's lives and support trailblazing services to help build capability across mainstream services.

The new strategy must be reinforced by updated statutory guidance, making clear what the NHS and local authorities must do to implement the strategy. The Government must make clear how services will be delivered, how they will be held accountable, and what the consequences will be when they fail to meet autistic people's needs.

Public understanding, acceptance and accessibility

Awareness of autism has rapidly grown since 2009, but public understanding and acceptance have not kept pace. Most autistic people still do not feel accepted or understood. Public spaces and facilities are too often inaccessible. This drives loneliness and mental ill health and stops many autistic people from fully participating in society.

Public discourse about autism is often unhelpful and, at worst, based on alarming misconceptions. This has a damaging impact on autistic people and those who support them.

The Government must now step up and show its support for autistic people, running a public understanding campaign in partnership with autistic people and those who support them. The Government must monitor this campaign and evaluate its impact.

To make public spaces accessible to autistic people, the Government must commission and evaluate mandatory, co-produced training for public-facing staff and make clear how they should meet their duties towards autistic people under equality law.

Identification, assessment and support

Autism diagnosis can change lives, enabling autistic people and those around them to understand and respond to their needs. However, the autism assessment system can also become a bottleneck, giving overstretched services a means to ration access to support.

Successive governments have focused limited resources on increasing capacity to carry out autism assessments, rather than providing support before and after diagnosis. The autism assessment system is now under severe pressure. Thousands wait years for a diagnosis and receive little to no support even when it comes.

The Government wants to see more autistic people receive needs-led support without a diagnosis. However, many fear that this will become an excuse to withhold diagnosis and make it harder to access any support at all.

The Government urgently needs to invest in autism assessment. But this will not be enough on its own. A radical shift is needed. Working in close partnership with autistic people and those who support them, the Government must identify how to move towards a stepped, lifelong model of support.

Reducing health inequalities and building support in the community

Autistic people face unacceptable inequalities in health outcomes and life expectancy. The Government has acted to make healthcare services more accessible for autistic people, by rolling out the Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training and trialling health checks for autistic adults. To build on this progress, the Government must test and roll out evidence-based ways of meeting autistic people's healthcare needs and develop capability across the health and care workforce.

Autistic people still often fall into gaps between mental health and social care services. Many are turned away from mental health services just because they are autistic. Services must be given backing and incentives to provide low-level, integrated support to prevent care needs from developing and from escalating into a crisis. This support often costs little, but makes a big difference.

Too many autistic people are still being detained in mental health hospitals for no good reason. To put a stop to this at last, the Government must set out a roadmap for the development of strong community services. Autistic people also die early far too often. The Learning from Lives and Deaths Review process must be made mandatory and an independent process set up to make sure recommendations are implemented.

Access to education and transitions to adulthood

Autistic children and young people do not have equal access to education. Thousands are unhappy at school or out of school altogether, with many families turning to home education in desperation. The Government must build up capability for educating autistic children and young people across all types of educational provision, supporting high-performing specialist schools to act as centres of excellence.

Young autistic people typically face a gulf in access to support when they become adults. Just when they should be spreading their wings, vital support falls away. Services must be developed to help young autistic people through this crucial transition, bringing together education, employment, housing and mental health support.

Employment

Most autistic people are not in work, but many would like to be. Supporting more autistic people to find and stay in work is not only critical to enabling those who wish to work to fulfil their aspirations, but would also help unlock economic benefits for the country as a whole.

Supported internships and supported employment programmes have a track record of helping autistic people move into work. Expanding access to such schemes is crucial. Employers also need better support and incentives to enable more autistic people to find, stay and thrive in work. The Government should promote voluntary accreditation schemes like Autistica's Neurodiversity Employers Index and strengthen the Disability Confident scheme so it rewards employers that really do offer good support.

Criminal justice

Autistic people are at higher risk of falling through the cracks in systems of support. This can put them at risk of becoming involved in the criminal justice system, as victims, witnesses, or offenders.

The evidence on autistic people in the criminal justice system, while limited, is concerning. Autistic people face barriers to having their needs understood and met when they come into contact with the police, in courts, in prisons and on probation. This may increase their risk of not being diverted out of the system.

There are numerous initiatives to improve support for autistic people in the criminal and youth justice systems, but they are piecemeal. The Government must now develop, test and roll out effective forms of support across the whole system.

Conclusion

The Government must now use our recommendations as a basis to develop the new autism strategy to take effect in July 2026. At the heart of the strategy must be ambitions to involve autistic people in all decisions that affect them, to enable every autistic person to receive the right support at the right time, and to help build a more inclusive and prosperous society. Achieving these ambitions will take time. The starting point is to set realistic goals, make a plan to deliver them, monitor progress, and work together to build change.

LIST OF CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Chapter 1: Introduction

1. Within the current parliamentary rules for committee work, we have sought to ensure that autistic people and those who support them have been given many opportunities and a variety of means for meaningful involvement in the Committee's work. (Paragraph 60)

2. We invite the House of Lords Procedure and Privileges Committee (which is responsible for recommending changes to House of Lords procedure) to consider ways in future to facilitate the meaningful involvement of a diverse range of people with lived experience in the work of committees such as ours, and the Liaison Committee (which is responsible for recommending the appointment of new committees) to provide committees with sufficient time and resources to do so. (Paragraph 61)

3. Our report sets out a path to addressing the needs and aspirations of autistic people through the new autism strategy. Each of our recommendations requires urgent action as part of that strategy. The Minister for Care has made a commitment to bring forward the new autism strategy in 2026, to ensure there is no vacuum when the current strategy expires in July that year, and to put in place an implementation plan. The Government must now meet that commitment in full. (Paragraph 62)

4. The Minister for Care has also made a commitment to use this Committee's work to help shape the new autism strategy. We will judge the Government's response against that commitment. It is in that spirit that we make this report for debate. (Paragraph 63)

Chapter 2: The Autism Act, autism strategy and statutory guidance

5. The Autism Act 2009 was a critical step forward in the recognition of autistic people and their needs. (Paragraph 142)

6. The Autism Act, successive autism strategies and statutory guidance have been vital in driving national and local action to improve autistic people's lives. They have set lines of responsibility for meeting autistic people's needs and brought more autistic people and those who support them into decisions about the services they use. They have also helped drive change in the way that services are organised and run, most significantly through the expansion of access to autism assessment for adults. (Paragraph 143)

7. However, the Act and successive autism strategies have failed to tackle the key barriers that stand in the way of improving outcomes. Meanwhile, numbers of autistic people and families seeking assessment and support have risen rapidly. This is likely to be because of changes in the understanding of autism; because more autistic people are struggling to cope; and because thresholds for access to support from overstretched public services have risen. In the words of one witness, the state is fighting the state. (Paragraph 144)

8. The Government must immediately begin development of the new cross-government, all-age autism strategy, so it takes effect when the current one expires in July 2026. The new strategy should be structured around the six key themes outlined in this report: improving understanding, acceptance and accessibility; identification, assessment and support; reducing health inequalities and building support in the community; access to education and transitions to adulthood; employment; and criminal justice. (Paragraph 145)

9. The new strategy should be based on principles that:

   - the meaningful involvement of autistic people and those that support them will be critical to the strategy's success;
   - ensuring autistic people can access the right support at the right time is vital to enabling them to live fulfilling lives;
   - autistic people and their needs are diverse; every autistic person has different strengths and needs; and those needs may fluctuate over the lifespan, so support must be flexible, responsive and person-centred;
   - autistic people often need most support just at the times of transition in life when support may be most likely to fall away; and,
   - making society more inclusive for autistic people will help make it better for everyone. (Paragraph 146)

10. The Government must:

   - meaningfully involve a diverse range of autistic people and people who support them in every stage of the development and delivery of the new strategy and of every policy under it;
   - produce a deliverable and costed plan for the implementation of the strategy. This should make clear who will be responsible and who will be accountable for national, regional and local delivery of the strategy. A named Government minister must be accountable for the overall delivery of the strategy. Annual progress reports must be published;
   - identify in the strategy a focused set of priority outcomes, actions that will help achieve them, and how progress against each priority will be measured; and,
   - set out in the strategy a plan to improve cross-government data collection and reporting on outcomes. (Paragraph 147)

11. To be a success, the strategy will need to identify cross-cutting, systemic barriers to improving outcomes for autistic people and set out how the Government will overcome those barriers. In particular:

   - Responsibility and accountability for meeting autistic people's needs are fragmented, meaning services have little incentive to provide timely support. The strategy must set out how the Government will give services the support and incentives they need to invest in early support and ensure they are held to account for failures to provide such support.
   - There are too often barriers to the meaningful involvement of autistic people in service design and delivery. The strategy must set out a plan to strengthen the involvement of autistic people and those who support them in the development and delivery of services at every level.
   - There are some exemplary services supporting autistic people, but they are patchy and too many autistic people have no access to them. The strategy must set out how the Government will support specialist services and professionals to advise and build capability across mainstream services.
   - Evidence on the best ways to meet autistic people's needs is still limited. The Government must establish a research initiative to fund, develop and test

co-designed interventions to improve priority outcomes for autistic people and enable effective interventions to be scaled up. (Paragraph 148)

12. The Government must produce updated statutory guidance to the Autism Act to support the new autism strategy. This should:

    - identify a clear, focused set of duties for the NHS and local authorities, making clear what it is mandatory, and what it is recommended, they do to implement the autism strategy;
    - make clear the relationship between duties under the Autism Act and duties under other relevant legislation, including duties towards autistic children and young people;
    - confirm that each local authority should have a named joint commissioner or senior manager to lead the commissioning of care and support services for autistic people;
    - confirm that each local authority should set up a meaningful autism partnership arrangement;
    - set out what information local authorities and NHS bodies will need to provide to the Government to enable progress against the strategy to be measured, for example through a new self-assessment framework;
    - make clear how the Government will hold a local authority or NHS body to account if it does not follow the statutory guidance and does not have a good reason why not; and,
    - make clear how autistic people and those who support them can access independent recourse when services fail to meet their needs. (Paragraph 149)

Chapter 3: Improving understanding, acceptance and accessibility

13. There has been a welcome increase in public awareness of autism since the Autism Act came into force. Younger people in particular are perceived to be embracing neurodiversity and demonstrating acceptance of autism. There are positive signs that these trends have created an environment where people are more willing to seek and be open about an autism diagnosis. (Paragraph 213)

14. However, understanding of autism and acceptance of autistic people continue to lag behind. The aim of the current autism strategy for there to be a significant improvement in public understanding and acceptance by 2026 is unlikely to be met. There remain fundamental misunderstandings and misconceptions about autism, and autistic people remain subject to stereotyping, stigma and discrimination. (Paragraph 214)

15. There is also a real fear among autistic people and those who support them that the misinformed public discourse about autism at the present time is increasing the stigma that autistic people face. In particular, rhetoric suggesting there is an overdiagnosis problem has had a damaging impact. The ambition that there comes a time when acceptance becomes embracement of autism remains far off. (Paragraph 215)

16. Against that backdrop, the failure by successive governments to meet the commitment in the current autism strategy to develop an autism public awareness and understanding initiative is both striking and unacceptable. (Paragraph 216)

17. The Government must as a matter of urgency implement a new initiative to improve understanding and acceptance of autism. This should be led at ministerial level and produced with autistic people and those who support them. This initiative should be designed to engage and inform both the public in general, and staff in public-facing roles in particular. It must reflect the diversity of experience of autistic people. It must also be evaluated robustly, including by autistic people. (Paragraph 217)

18. This initiative should be underpinned by regular polling, tracking changes to public attitudes to and understanding and acceptance of autism. (Paragraph 218)

19. As a key part of this, the Government must commission a national programme of accredited mandatory training in autism and neuroinclusion for public-facing staff in all public bodies and service providers. This training should also be developed with and led by autistic people and those who support them, and should be made available to private sector businesses and organisations. (Paragraph 219)

20. Autistic people continue to face fundamental barriers to the accessibility of a wide range of public services and environments. This has a damaging impact not only on effective service provision, but also on the wellbeing of autistic people and those who support them. (Paragraph 220)

21. Strengthened and updated statutory guidance needs to set out how the NHS, local authorities and all public bodies and service providers must meet their duties in equality law to ensure that public services and environments are fully accessible to and inclusive of autistic people. This must take account of the principles of universal design and the British Standards Institution guidance (PAS 6463) on designing buildings to be accessible to neurodivergent people. It must also involve meaningful consultation with autistic people and those who support them about accessibility needs. (Paragraph 221)

Chapter 4: Identification, assessment and support

22. An effective autism assessment system is critical to improving lives. Diagnosis plays a vital role in enabling an autistic person and those that support them to understand and respond well to their needs. For many, diagnosis is life-changing. However, in practice the autism assessment system can also become a tool for public services to ration limited access to support, forcing some to pursue diagnosis to access even basic help. (Paragraph 287)

23. The current autism assessment system is not fit for purpose. Access to autism assessment has widened, but the number of people coming forward for assessment has risen much more rapidly than services have been expanded. Thousands of people wait years for a diagnosis and are left with little to no support even when it comes. (Paragraph 288)

24. Successive Government strategies have focused on using limited capacity to increase the number of assessments carried out, at the expense of supporting autistic people before and after diagnosis. This means vital opportunities to offer timely support are routinely missed. (Paragraph 289)

25. The Government is seeking to provide more needs-led support and reduce numbers of people seeking diagnosis. However, there is real fear among autistic people and those who support them that this could mean that the intrinsic benefits of diagnosis are lost and in practice make it even harder to access any support at all. (Paragraph 290)

26. A new way forward is needed. To tackle unacceptable waiting times, the Government will need to continue to scale up autism assessment services. By itself, this will not be sustainable. To enable every autistic person to access the support they need in a timely way, the Government needs to build a stable, equitable model of identification, assessment and support that can be stepped up and down throughout life. (Paragraph 291)

27. The Government must immediately:

    - invest in driving down autism assessment waiting times, while also building up capacity to provide high-quality support both before and after diagnosis; and,
    - set up a commissioning framework to develop, test and scale up stepped, evidence-based identification, assessment and support pathways for autistic children and adults. (Paragraph 292)

28. In close partnership with autistic people and those who support them, the Government must establish the evidence and build a consensus on:

    - the reasons why people seek autism assessment;
    - the kinds of support that should be offered on the basis of need with and without an autism diagnosis, in healthcare and beyond;
    - how to shift away from a binary model of autism assessment towards a model of stepped identification of strengths and needs at clinical and sub-clinical levels;
    - how to ensure autism assessment services are not siloed, so that there is a 'single front door' for the assessment of autism and of associated neurodevelopmental and mental health conditions;
    - how to move towards a model of lifelong, stepped support for people across all services;
    - how to enable specialist autism assessment services to help build capability across mainstream services; and,
    - how to set training and quality assurance standards for autism assessment. (Paragraph 293)

29. The Government should use its findings as the basis of a new commissioning framework, workforce plan and funding settlement for autism assessment. (Paragraph 294)

Chapter 5: Reducing health inequalities and building support in the community

30. We welcome the Government's commitments to address unacceptable inequalities in health outcomes and life expectancy in the new autism strategy. NHS services are too often inaccessible for autistic people. Even when people do access NHS services, those services often lack the capability they need to offer the right support. (Paragraph 340)

31. Important progress has been made in improving autistic people's access to healthcare in recent years, in particular through the introduction of the Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training. Building on this progress is vital. (Paragraph 341)

32. In the new autism strategy and statutory guidance, the Government should identify priority health outcomes for autistic people and actions to improve them. Local authorities and NHS bodies should be required to report on progress towards these outcomes. (Paragraph 342)

33. The Government must ensure that the requirement for all staff at registered health and care providers to undertake mandatory training on autism and learning disability is implemented in full. (Paragraph 343)

34. Subject to the forthcoming evaluation of the Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training, the Government must ensure that all health and care staff who may be required to provide a service to an autistic person or a person with a learning disability have completed Tier 2 of that training at a minimum. (Paragraph 344)

35. The Government should roll out health checks for autistic people across the NHS. The Government should immediately reinstate the target to increase uptake of health checks for people with a learning disability in NHS planning guidance. It should do the same for health checks for autistic people as they are rolled out. (Paragraph 345)

36. Using the priority health outcomes for autistic people as a basis, the Government must develop a plan to reduce health inequalities for autistic people. This must set out how the Government will:

    - build up capability to support autistic people in the health and care workforce, including enabling specialist services to advise and support mainstream services; and,
    - develop, test and scale up effective models for meeting the needs of autistic people across general and mental health services. (Paragraph 346)

37. Too many autistic people are unable to access the support they need to live well in the community. Many still fall through gaps between mental health and social care services. Failures to provide early, timely support increase the risks of crisis. (Paragraph 387)

38. The Government should develop a national framework for the integration of healthcare and community support for autistic people to prevent care needs from developing and escalating, underpinned by a plan to develop capability in the health and care workforce. (Paragraph 388)

39. We welcome the Government's commitment to make it a priority in the new autism strategy to ensure autistic people can leave and stay out of mental health inpatient settings. (Paragraph 389)

40. The Government must set a clear timeline and roadmap for strong community services to be put in place, so that provisions in the Mental Health Bill to prevent the unnecessary detention of autistic people and people with a learning disability can be commenced. (Paragraph 390)

41. Autistic people are at unacceptable risk of harm in health and care settings and in informal care relationships. There is also concerning evidence to suggest that some carers of autistic people, and autistic carers, are unfairly blamed or treated with suspicion when they try to access help. (Paragraph 391)

42. In new statutory guidance to the Autism Act, the Government must make clear how it will ensure autistic people, their families and carers are able to raise and escalate concerns about risks of failures to keep people safe and how services will be held to account for such failures. (Paragraph 392)

43. It is unacceptable that so many autistic people and people with a learning disability die prematurely. The Government must make it mandatory for Integrated Care Boards to complete LeDeR reviews into the lives and deaths of autistic people and people with a learning disability. The Government must also set up an independent mechanism to oversee the implementation of recommendations made in LeDeR reviews. (Paragraph 393)

Chapter 6: Access to education and transitions to adulthood

44. Autistic children and young people do not have equal access to education. Most autistic children and young people attend mainstream schools; many are unhappy there. Increasing numbers of families of autistic children are turning to home education not because they want to but because school is no longer an option for them. Rates of suspension and exclusion are also too high. A new generation of young autistic people is being set up to struggle. (Paragraph 441)

45. Mainstream schools need more support and stronger incentives to provide autistic children and young people with the support they need. We endorse the recommendation of the House of Commons Education Select Committee that an inclusive mainstream education system must be underpinned by principles that:

    - "education settings and environments must be accessible, safe, and designed to meet a wide range of sensory and physical needs;
    - "teachers and teaching assistants and other support staff should have the expertise, training, and confidence to support diverse learners, underpinned by regular access to embedded specialist professionals;
    - "the curriculum must be flexible, relevant, and reflect the representation of young people with SEND; and the Government must ensure the curriculum itself and the assessment of it reflect and accommodate their needs;
    - "accountability systems must examine and prioritise the progress and outcomes of all pupils, on a rounded set of indicators which include but are not limited to academic attainment, so that inclusion is embedded as an essential component of quality for all settings; and,
    - "good inclusive practice must always ensure rigorous, systemic approaches to understanding the individual needs of every child and delivering personalised support." (Paragraph 442)

46. Improving outcomes for autistic children and young people must be a key measure of the success of any reform to the education system. In the new autism strategy, the Government should set priority outcomes for better access to education for autistic children and young people and report regularly on progress towards those outcomes. (Paragraph 443)

47. To help achieve those outcomes, the Government should develop, test and scale up approaches to building capability to support autistic children and young people across all types of educational setting, including by enabling high-performing specialist schools to act as centres of excellence. (Paragraph 444)

48. Young autistic people very often face a cliff edge in access to support in the transition to adulthood, just when they need that support most. In the new autism strategy, the Government must set priority outcomes for better transitions to adulthood for young people and benchmarks by which progress will be measured. The Government must set clear lines of responsibility and ministerial accountability for progress. (Paragraph 454)

49. The Government must produce a commissioning framework for local authorities and NHS bodies to provide integrated, evidence-based services for young autistic people during the transition to adulthood, including support with education, mental health, housing and employment. (Paragraph 455)

Chapter 7: Employment

50. The Government's Get Britain Working plan offers opportunities to enable more autistic people to move towards and into work, in particular through the expansion of access to supported employment. (Paragraph 495)

51. In the new autism strategy, the Government should make a significant increase in the employment rate for autistic people a priority outcome and should report regularly on progress towards this goal. To achieve this, the Government should fund the expansion of evidence-based initiatives to support people to find and stay in work, including through supported internships and supported employment. (Paragraph 496)

52. In updated statutory guidance to the Autism Act, the Government should require that local authorities and NHS bodies work with the Department for Work and Pensions and employers to support autistic people to move into work and to collect evidence and data on progress against this goal. (Paragraph 497)

53. Employers have a vital role to play in enabling autistic people to find, stay and thrive in work, but they need more support and stronger incentives to do so. (Paragraph 527)

54. The Government should develop and publish standards on what employers should do in practice to enable autistic applicants and employees to access their legal rights to reasonable adjustments, drawing on evidence and experience from employers and employees. (Paragraph 528)

55. The Government should run a campaign to promote evidence-based voluntary peer-to-peer learning and accreditation schemes for employers, such as the Autistica Neurodiversity Employers Index. (Paragraph 529)

56. The Government should develop, test and scale up financial incentives for employers to support more autistic and disabled people to find and stay in work, for example through taking into account the percentage of an organisation's workforce that is disabled in the awarding of public contracts, or through the use of tax incentives and/or national insurance relief. (Paragraph 530)

57. The Government should reform the Disability Confident scheme so that certification at Levels 2 and 3 is based on objective criteria, including the percentage of the workforce that is disabled. (Paragraph 531)

Chapter 8: Criminal justice

58. The current autism strategy aims for all parts of the criminal justice system to have made demonstrable progress by 2026 in ensuring that autistic people have equal access to care and support where needed. This aim is unlikely to be met. While there are many pockets of good practice, support across the system as a whole is patchy and inconsistent. The system is not joined up in its support for and understanding of autistic people, and there is no effective mechanism for best practice in a particular institution or part of the system to be applied across the system as a whole. (Paragraph 608)

59. We identify six specific problems:

    - poor identification, screening and assessment pathways within the criminal justice system;
    - poor and inconsistent collection and sharing of data on numbers of autistic people and the needs of individuals;
    - a lack of understanding of autism and the specific difficulties that people may face in the criminal justice system;
    - a lack of support and adjustments for autistic people across the system;
    - continued cases of inappropriate treatment; and,
    - inconsistent practice across the system as a whole. (Paragraph 609)

60. The July 2021 Neurodiversity in the Criminal Justice System: a review of evidence report made six core recommendations:

    - A coordinated and cross-government national strategy.
    - A common screening tool to help more accurately determine the prevalence of neurodivergence in the criminal justice system.
    - Systematic collection and analysis of data to help more accurately determine the prevalence of neurodivergence in the criminal justice system.
    - A programme of awareness-raising and specialist training for staff in the criminal justice system.
    - Adjustments throughout the criminal justice system for those with neurodivergent conditions.
    - A coordinated means for all criminal justice system agencies to work together and with other statutory and third sector organisations to understand and meet the needs of neurodivergent individuals in the community, preventing offending and supporting rehabilitation. (Paragraph 610)

61. We endorse these recommendations. The Government must publish a full account of progress in each part of the criminal justice system towards meeting these objectives, and how it will seek to address them in the context of the next autism strategy. (Paragraph 611)

62. In particular, we call on the Government, working with all parts of the criminal justice system, the NHS and local authorities, to develop an evidence base on, test and roll out effective ways to identify and support autistic people. This should address support for victims, witnesses, suspects, defendants or those convicted of a crime. It should also focus on: preventing people entering the criminal justice system; screening, support and adjustments; tailored rehabilitation; and training for frontline staff. (Paragraph 612)

SAFEGUARDING ANNEX

Medical and Autism Evidence in Support of Urgent Reconsideration

A. Purpose of this Annex

1. This Annex consolidates the medical and autism evidence demonstrating (a) the Claimant's clinical vulnerabilities and (b) the safeguarding risks created by handling this Judicial Review on the papers or by written-only procedures.
2. It supports the request for a short, urgent oral, in-person permission hearing by showing that:
    - paper-based processes are clinically unsafe for the Claimant;
    - delay or continued non-engagement worsens her mental and physical health; and
    - the requested in-person hearing is a clinical necessity, not a preference.
3. All documents summarised here are already in the court papers and/or contained in the public, timestamped GitHub repository for this Judicial Review, which holds only official, lawfully publishable materials.

B. Clinical Background and Hospitalisations

4. The Claimant is diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Condition and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and has a long history of trauma-related psychiatric vulnerability.
5. During 2025, the Claimant experienced three significant hospitalisations (in March, June and November 2025) associated with acute mental-health crises. These episodes were closely linked to:

- escalating legal stressors,
- inaccessible, unadjusted court communication, and
- the absence of any recognised participation measures or safeguarding response.

6. Crisis team reports, A&E and hospital notes, and GP evidence collectively show a pattern of:
   - suicidal ideation and severe distress triggered by legal correspondence,
   - functional collapse when required to process complex legal instructions without adjustments, and
   - repeated warnings by clinicians that the Claimant's health is being destabilised by the way the legal process is conducted.
7. Clinically, these three hospitalisations are not isolated incidents. They demonstrate a continuing risk trajectory: if the Court process continues to operate in a paper-based, unadjusted way, further crises are foreseeable and preventable.

C. Medical Evidence – Dr Hayse's Report (Exhibit Section C)

8. The most recent medical evaluation is the report of Dr Bruce Hayse, dated 25 November 2025 (Exhibit Section C). Dr Hayse is an experienced physician who reviewed the Claimant's condition in the specific context of ongoing litigation.
9. Dr Hayse records that the Claimant has experienced recurrent psychiatric crises during 2025, directly connected to the stress and inaccessibility of the court process. He notes that the combination of autism, PTSD and chronic stress has led to:
   - marked cognitive overload,
   - disorganisation and confusion in response to legal instructions,

- severe anxiety and intrusive trauma symptoms triggered by court communications.

10. Dr Hayse expressly concludes that paper-based or written-only procedures are medically unsafe for the Claimant. In particular, he identifies:
    - the volume and complexity of written material,
    - the absence of real-time clarification, and
    - the unpredictable arrival of court and legal correspondence as factors that significantly destabilise her mental state.

11. The report further explains that remote or virtual hearings are not a safe alternative. Sensory overload, technological unpredictability, and the lack of embodied, human cues increase anxiety and reduce the Claimant's ability to process information.

12. Dr Hayse states that the Claimant's autistic and PTSD-related symptoms are exacerbated by uncertainty, ambiguity and lack of adjustments, and that her current mental-state fragility requires:
    - clear structure,
    - predictability,
    - paced communication, and
    - person-to-person interaction.

13. On this basis, Dr Hayse concludes that an oral, in-person hearing is clinically necessary to:
    - stabilise the Claimant during legal engagement,
    - allow clarification and reassurance in real time, and
    - minimise the risk of further psychiatric deterioration.

14. His overall safeguarding conclusion can be summarised as follows:

Continuing the present paper-based process is medically unsafe and presents a foreseeable risk of further psychiatric destabilisation.

D. Autism Assessment and Functional Participation Evidence – CLAAS (Exhibit Section B)

15. The Claimant has been formally assessed by CLAAS (autism service) in 2025. The Autism Diagnostic & Functional Assessment Report (Exhibit Section B) confirms diagnoses of:
    - Autism Spectrum Condition, and
    - Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder.
16. The CLAAS assessment makes clear that the Claimant's difficulties with:
    - abstract information,
    - ambiguity,
    - high-load written communication, and
    - rapid processing demands mean that conventional legal procedures put her at a substantial disadvantage compared with non-disabled court users.

17. The assessment notes that the withdrawal of court-ordered participation measures after the February 2024 trial caused significant distress and left the Claimant unable to understand or navigate subsequent orders and deadlines safely.
18. CLAAS identifies that the Claimant's autistic processing profile means that ambiguous instructions, written-only communication and complex procedural requirements are functionally inaccessible unless appropriately adjusted.
19. CLAAS recommends that the Claimant requires, at minimum:

- clear, structured and simplified communication,
- opportunities for interactive clarification,
- adjusted pacing and generous time for processing,
- a predictable environment, and
- consistent participation measures throughout any proceedings.

20. The report's functional conclusion is that, without such adjustments, the Claimant cannot meaningfully participate in judicial processes and is at high risk of clinical destabilisation.
21. Read together with Dr Hayse's report, the CLAAS evidence confirms that an oral, in-person hearing is not a luxury but an access requirement under the Equality Act 2010 and Autism Act statutory guidance: it is the only safe mode of engagement for this Claimant.

E. Safeguarding Communications and Non-Response (Exhibit Section A)

22. In parallel with the medical and autism assessments, the Claimant repeatedly notified HMCTS and associated bodies during October–November 2025 that she was not coping, was medically unsafe, and required urgent intervention and recognition of her vulnerability.
23. These safeguarding emails (summarised in Exhibit Section A) describe:
    - escalating confusion and disorientation,
    - inability to understand or comply with unadjusted directions,
    - fear that she would miss deadlines or misunderstand orders,
    - explicit references to medical decline and crisis episodes.

24. Despite the seriousness of these communications, there was no substantive safeguarding response. The administrative silence itself became a further source of harm:
    - PTSD symptoms worsened,
    - the Claimant's anxiety intensified,
    - her ability to organise, respond or self-advocate diminished.
25. From a safeguarding perspective, the non-response is clinically significant. Clinicians had already linked court processes to crisis episodes; ignoring or failing to act on the Claimant's warnings increased the risk of further hospitalisation.

F. Combined Clinical-Safeguarding Conclusion

26. The medical and autism evidence, viewed as a whole, demonstrates that the Claimant is at ongoing and foreseeable risk of serious deterioration if this Judicial Review is managed on the papers, by written-only procedures, or without appropriate participation measures.
27. The key points are:

a) The Claimant has Autism Spectrum Condition and PTSD, with documented crises in 2025 culminating in three hospitalisations (March, June, November 2025).
b) Written-only, paper-based court processes are medically unsafe for her and have already contributed to psychiatric destabilisation.
c) Remote or virtual hearings are also clinically unsuitable; they do not provide the regulated, predictable environment she requires and may increase sensory overload.
d) Autism assessments confirm that, without structured adjustments and interactive support, the Claimant cannot effectively participate in proceedings.
e) Repeated safeguarding warnings to HMCTS about these risks were not substantively answered, compounding both clinical and procedural risk.

28. In these circumstances, the only safe and lawful way to proceed is through a short, urgent, oral, in-person permission hearing, at which:
    - the Claimant's participation needs can be understood in real time,
    - appropriate adjustments and safeguarding measures can be structured,
    - and the Court can discharge its duties under Article 6 ECHR, the Equality Act 2010, the Autism Act statutory guidance, and the Public Sector Equality Duty.
29. Delay, continued paper determination, or further administrative silence would not be neutral; it would increase the safeguarding risk and perpetuate the disadvantage already evidenced by three hospitalisations and multiple crisis interventions over the past year.
30. This Annex is therefore relied upon in support of the Claimant's request for urgent reconsideration of the 4 December 2025 order and for the listing of an urgent oral, in-person permission hearing.

Permanent Secretary — Ministry of Justice
Chief Executive — HM Courts & Tribunals Service (HMCTS)

Cc: Justice Select Committee Administrator

URGENT PRE-ACTION PROTOCOL LETTER — JUDICIAL REVIEW

UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES SHOULD PERMISSION BE DETERMINED PRIVATELY ON THE PAPERS.

This is my formal Letter Before Claim under the Pre-Action Protocol for Judicial Review.

SECTION 1 — Proposed Claimant

Nadia Zahmoul
Nadia@rosekross.com

SECTION 2 — Proposed Defendants

1. Secretary of State for Justice
2. Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Justice
3. Chief Executive, HM Courts & Tribunals Service (HMCTS)

SECTION 3 — Summary of Intended Claim

This Judicial Review will challenge:

1. The failure of HMCTS/MoJ to log, process, safeguard, escalate, or transmit serious criminal evidence submitted between April 2024 and May 2025; and
2. The failure to safeguard and review the Imerman devices (MacBook Pro and Ubuntu computer) containing source-level criminal evidence, resulting in loss of chain of custody and exposure to risk.

The criminal evidence has been validated and is under active investigation by U.S. IRS:CI.

The safest and least harmful outcome for MoJ/HMCTS is now to resolve this matter by quashing the tainted family court order and restoring my right to a fair, lawful, evidence-based process.

SECTION 4 — Factual Background (Condensed)

4.1 Criminal Evidence Submitted to HMCTS/MoJ (April 2024 – May 2025)

I repeatedly submitted serious criminal evidence, including:

- Three structured Criminal Referrals (Parts 1–3);
- SJE Solaris analysis;
- Independent expert Paul Sibenik's analysis;
- BTC cluster tracing and fund-flow mapping;
- Molina prostitution ledgers;
- Notification of the IRS:CI investigation.

None of it was logged, acknowledged, escalated, transmitted, or safeguarded.

4.2 Imerman Devices Containing Criminal Evidence

From 2021 onward, HMCTS/MoJ were repeatedly informed that the Imerman devices contained:

- prostitution ledgers,
- Xero financial records,
- Bitcoin laundering structures,
- criminal-client payment logs,
- blockchain wallet data.

Despite explicit warnings:

- no chain of custody was maintained,
- no forensic review was undertaken,
- no safeguarding steps occurred.

4.3 Disability, Safeguarding, and Administrative Silence

HMCTS/MoJ were repeatedly told of:

- my Autism and PTSD,
- the deterioration triggered by administrative silence,
- safeguarding risks arising from mishandled criminal evidence.

No reasonable adjustments or safeguarding steps were taken.

SECTION 5 — Legal Grounds

Ground 1 — Failure to Safeguard Criminal Evidence

HMCTS/MoJ had a non-discretionary duty to preserve, log, escalate, and protect criminal evidence. No such steps were taken.

Ground 2 — Failure to Log, Process, or Transmit Criminal Evidence

All criminal submissions were ignored.
12 May 2025: criminal evidence transmitted to Parliament, Lords, Cabinet, and Court of Appeal — still no action.

Ground 3 — Procedural Unfairness From Administrative Failures

The failures prevented safeguarding, prevented review, and caused deterioration of health.

My Autism/PTSD and need for adjustments were ignored.

Ground 5 — Breach of the Duty of Candour

No disclosure of internal logs, no chain-of-custody material, no safeguarding documentation.

AMENDED GROUNDS OF CLAIM

(Administrative & Procedural Clarification – Permission Stage)

These amended grounds clarify and consolidate the administrative and procedural basis of the challenge. They do not introduce new causes of action and are filed to assist the Court at the permission stage.

Ground 1 — Administrative Revocation and Non-Operation of Court-Ordered Protective Measures (Disability Participation & Maintenance Pending Suit)

1. The Claimant is a disabled court user. Participation measures were identified and implemented during proceedings pursuant to Part 3A.
2. Those participation measures were subsequently treated by court administration as having ceased without any judicial determination, order, or recorded reasons.

3. The withdrawal occurred immediately following the trial, without notice, without a hearing, and without affording the Claimant an opportunity to be heard, notwithstanding repeated communications from the Claimant stating that she was unable to participate without participation measures.

4. Participation duties are continuous and cannot be withdrawn or treated as spent by administrative assumption.

5. A parallel administrative failure arose in relation to Maintenance Pending Suit ("MPS"). Payments due under a subsisting court order ceased in February 2024 and were not enforced during March, April and May 2024, notwithstanding repeated requests by the Claimant for enforcement. During that period, the Respondent remained in breach of a live order, and no lawful administrative action was taken.

6. A paragraph was subsequently inserted into the final order dated 24 May 2024 purporting to remit outstanding MPS payments. That provision was introduced without notice to the Claimant, without a hearing, and without affording her an opportunity to be heard. It was retrospective in form and did not address or cure the prior period of non-enforcement between March and May 2024, during which the Claimant was deprived of the protection of a live order.

7. The Claimant challenges the administrative handling of both participation measures and MPS, including:
   (a) the non-operation or revocation of court-ordered protective measures without lawful authority;
   (b) the absence of any lawful administrative process for variation, cessation, or enforcement during the relevant period; and
   (c) the absence of any contemporaneous audit trail, reasons, or recorded administrative decision.

8. The failure to operate a lawful administrative framework in respect of court-ordered protective measures gives rise to an arguable public law error, including procedural unfairness, breach of duties under the Equality Act 2010, and interference with effective access to the court.

Table 1 — Administrative Failure to Operate Court-Ordered Protective Measures

Feature	Participation Measures (Part 3A)	Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)
Court-ordered protective mechanism	Yes	Yes
Live obligation in force	Yes	Yes
Abrupt non-operation from Feb 2024	Yes	Yes
Lawful order authorising cessation at the time	None	None (March–May 2024)
Enforcement / continuation during March–May 2024	Not operated	Not enforced
Notice to affected party	None	None
Hearing prior to non-operation	None	None
Reasons recorded at the time	None	None
Opportunity to be heard	None	None
Repeated requests for assistance/enforcement	Yes	Yes
Administrative action taken during breach period	None	None
Later retrospective provision	N/A	Paragraph inserted 24 May 2024
Later provision made with notice/hearing	N/A	No
Later provision cured prior unlawfulness	N/A	No
Impact on effective participation and access to court	Yes	Yes

Ground 2 — Absence of Reasons and Administrative Audit Trail

9. In respect of multiple matters raised by the Claimant, there is no identifiable administrative decision, reasoning, or audit trail.
10. The absence of reasons and traceable administrative handling frustrates accountability and effective recourse and constitutes an arguable public law error.

Ground 3 — Administrative Non-Handling of Serious Material (Oxus)

11. The Claimant does not invite the Court to determine the truth of allegations concerning Oxus or to make findings of criminal liability.
12. The challenge is confined to the administrative and procedural handling of serious material placed before the court, including documentary material, sworn statements, contemporaneous correspondence, and a formal contempt application.
13. Despite the seriousness of the material, there is no identifiable administrative action, recorded decision, referral, audit trail, or reasoned response.
14. The absence of any discernible administrative handling constitutes an arguable failure to operate a lawful and accountable process when faced with material affecting the integrity of proceedings.

Ground 4 — Administrative Handling of Imerman Devices

15. The Claimant challenges the administrative handling of the Imerman process, including prolonged inaction, lack of escalation, and absence of any recorded administrative decision explaining inaction.
16. The failure to operate an established administrative process in respect of the Imerman devices constitutes an arguable public law error.

Ground 5 — Failure to Consider Cumulative Impact

17. The Defendant public authorities failed to consider the cumulative impact of repeated administrative omissions and inaction on the Claimant's participation and access to recourse.

Relief Sought

The Claimant seeks appropriate public law relief.

CONSOLIDATED APPLICATION FOR PERMISSION TO RELY ON FURTHER PARTICULARS OF GROUND 1

A. Application

1. The Claimant applies for permission to rely on Further Particulars of Ground 1 of her Amended Grounds of Claim dated 2 January 2026, currently before the Court at the permission stage.

2. This application is made:
    - prior to any determination of permission, and
    - in the absence of any direction limiting further material.

3. The Claimant is a litigant in person and files this application in good faith to assist the Court.

B. Scope of the Application

4. The Further Particulars:
    - do not introduce any new cause of action or new ground of challenge;
    - do not expand the scope of the Judicial Review;
    - are confined to clarifying, evidencing, and particularising matters already pleaded within Ground 1 of the Amended Grounds.

5. Ground 1 already challenges the administrative revocation and non-operation of court-ordered protective measures, including:
    - participation measures under Part 3A; and
    - Maintenance Pending Suit ("MPS").

6. The Further Particulars relate only to the MPS aspect of Ground 1.

C. Purpose of the Further Particulars

7. The purpose of the Further Particulars is to assist the Court at the permission stage by:

    a. clarifying the accurate chronology of the Claimant's requests for enforcement of a live MPS order, beginning on 7 March 2024;

b. addressing inaccurate assumptions reflected in the court record that the Claimant's MPS claim arose only after judgment was handed down on 18 April 2024;

c. explaining the causal impact of the non-operation of MPS on the Claimant's ability to participate in proceedings, including post-judgment order-drafting; and

d. placing before the Court subsequently confirmed administrative evidence from HMCTS that it holds no record of any MPS order in the Claimant's case.

8. That HMCTS confirmation materially particularises allegations already pleaded at paragraphs 5–8 and Table 1 of the Amended Grounds, namely:
    - the absence of any lawful administrative process for the operation, enforcement, variation, or cessation of MPS;
    - the absence of a contemporaneous audit trail or recorded decision; and
    - the resulting interference with effective participation and access to the court.

D. Further Particulars of Ground 1: Maintenance Pending Suit

D1. Correct chronology

9. The Claimant began requesting enforcement of a live MPS order on 7 March 2024, following the conclusion of the trial on 28 February 2024.

10. Those requests were made:

- in open correspondence;
- repeatedly during March and April 2024; and
- expressly linked to the Claimant's inability to participate following:
    - cessation of maintenance payments;
    - withdrawal of participation measures; and
    - loss of legal representation.

11. The MPS was not contingent on the handing down of judgment on 18 April 2024 and remained legally operative pending decree absolute, which has not occurred to date.

12. The treatment of the Claimant's MPS claim as arising only post-judgment is therefore factually incorrect.

D2. Administrative inaction

13. Despite repeated requests:

- the Claimant's enforcement application was not sealed;
- no hearing was listed;
- no reasons were provided; and
- no vulnerability-aware process was applied.

14. No lawful administrative mechanism was operated to:

- enforce the MPS;
- vary or discharge it; or

- determine accrued arrears during March–May 2024.

D3. Retrospective remission

15. On 14 May 2024, a provision remitting MPS arrears was introduced into the draft final order and later sealed on 24 May 2024.

16. That provision was introduced:

- without notice to the Claimant;
- without a hearing;
- without determination of her outstanding enforcement requests; and
- at a time when she was demonstrably unable to participate.

17. The retrospective remission did not cure the prior period of unlawful non-enforcement and instead neutralised its consequences.

D4. HMCTS record failure

18. In April 2025, HMCTS confirmed in writing that:

- the orders it holds on file for the Claimant's case do not include any MPS order; and
- it may not hold a full record of orders made in the proceedings.

19. This confirmation demonstrates a systemic administrative failure, in that:

- a live court-ordered protective mechanism was not properly recorded, retained, or retrievable; and
- enforcement and remission were addressed without a traceable administrative audit trail.

D5. Impact on participation, including order-drafting

20. Following the withdrawal of formal participation measures, the MPS functioned in practice as a participation-preserving mechanism.

21. The administrative failure to operate, record, or enforce the MPS:

- deprived the Claimant of subsistence and legal representation;
- rendered her unable to engage in enforcement processes; and
- directly impaired her effective access to the court.

22. Inability to engage in order-drafting:
    Following the conclusion of the trial on 28 February 2024, the Claimant was unable to engage meaningfully in the post-judgment order-drafting process. This was a direct consequence of the withdrawal of participation measures, the non-enforcement of MPS, and the resulting loss of legal representation and functional capacity. During the period in which multiple drafts of the final order were prepared and revised, the Claimant did not receive draft orders, was not consulted on proposed changes, and was not in a position to review or respond to unilateral amendments. The administrative failure to preserve participation therefore extended beyond hearings and enforcement and materially affected the integrity and fairness of the order-drafting process itself.

23. These matters materially particularise Ground 1 and support the pleaded allegations of:

- procedural unfairness;
- breach of duties under the Equality Act 2010; and
- interference with effective participation contrary to Article 6 ECHR.

E. Relief Sought (Limited)

24. The Claimant seeks permission to rely on these Further Particulars of Ground 1 in support of the Amended Grounds of Claim dated 2 January 2026.

Administrative Court reference: AC-2025-LON-004293

1. Purpose of this Note

1. This Supplemental Note is filed for the limited and specific purpose of placing on the Court record recent correspondence concerning the custodial handling of electronic devices seized and retained pursuant to court process ("Imerman devices"), as referred to at Grounds 3 and 4 of the Amended Grounds of Claim dated 2 January 2026.

2. The Claimant does not invite the Court at this stage to determine the substance of any criminal allegations, nor to adjudicate any dispute between private parties.

3. The material is relied upon solely to evidence the continued absence of any identifiable administrative audit trail, custodial decision, or lawful handling process in respect of court-controlled evidential material.

2. Background (brief)

4. During the family proceedings, electronic devices containing material of potential criminal relevance were seized and retained pursuant to court process, engaging established Imerman safeguards and public-law duties relating to custody, review, and lawful disposal.

5. The Amended Grounds plead that no lawful or transparent administrative process was operated to account for, safeguard, or determine the handling of those devices.

3. Recent correspondence

6. On 12 January 2026, the Claimant wrote to Hughes Fowler Carruthers LLP, responding to a request for clarification as to the custody of the Imerman devices.

7. In that correspondence:
   - the Claimant was informed that she should "take up" the matter with the Respondent;
   - the Claimant responded that this was legally incorrect, explaining that once devices are taken into custody pursuant to court process, responsibility for safeguarding, audit, and lawful handling does not rest with a private party and cannot be displaced by administrative deflection.

8. The correspondence confirms that, notwithstanding repeated requests, no custodial account, audit trail, or administrative decision has been identified or provided by any court body or State authority.

4. Relevance to the pleaded claim

9. The correspondence is filed:
    - to demonstrate that the issue has been formally raised and articulated on correct legal grounds;
    - to evidence the continuing nature of the alleged administrative failure pleaded at Grounds 3 and 4;
    - and to preserve the public-law record concerning evidential integrity, accountability, and court administration.

10. The Claimant maintains that the loss, non-handling, or administrative suppression of serious material placed before the court is itself a matter of public-law importance, irrespective of the outcome of this claim.

5. Scope

11. This Note is filed for the record only.
    The Claimant seeks no determination of these matters at the permission stage beyond recognition that they form part of the pleaded public-law context.

• Final order is approved and sealed.
• The remission of MPS arrears is included without any prior determination of the Claimant's enforcement application.
• A subsequent amendment under the slip rule is made.

3. Participation Impact

• Throughout March–May 2024, the Claimant repeatedly explained that enforcement of MPS was essential to:
– obtain food and accommodation,
– maintain physical and mental health,

– secure legal advice, and – participate meaningfully in post-judgment processes.

• The contemporaneous record shows that MPS was framed as a participation-preserving mechanism, not merely a financial claim.

4. Key Points for the Court

1. Enforcement of Maintenance Pending Suit ("MPS") was sought from 7 March 2024 onwards, contemporaneously with the Claimant's loss of legal representation and withdrawal of participation measures.
2. A formal enforcement application (Form D50K) was filed on 2 May 2024, during the period in which the MPS order remained legally operative.
3. HMCTS acknowledged the enforcement application on 9 May 2024 as pending issue/sealing, subject to payment of the applicable court fee, confirming that enforcement proceedings were live and known to the court prior to the unilateral draft orders of mid-May 2024.
4. No sealed enforcement application or enforcement determination was made during the operative period of the MPS order, and in particular no enforcement decision was taken prior to:
    - the unilateral draft order lodged on 14 May 2024, and
    - the remission of MPS arrears in the final order approved and sealed between 24 May and 3 June 2024.
5. The absence of any enforcement determination during this period resulted in the Claimant being left without subsistence or effective participation in the proceedings at the critical stage when draft orders were being prepared and approved.

6. A subsequent enforcement application was issued in February 2025, after the MPS order had ceased to be in force and after arrears had already been remitted by the final order of May–June 2024. That later application was dismissed by the High Court on 8 May 2025 on jurisdictional grounds, namely that the court no longer had jurisdiction to enforce an order that had already been discharged.
7. The later dismissal does not retrospectively cure the failure to determine or issue the enforcement application when the MPS order was operative. Rather, it underscores that administrative non-operation during the operative period foreclosed effective enforcement, thereby contributing to the prejudice relied upon in this claim.

CLAIMANT'S REPLY TO THE DEFENDANT'S SUMMARY GROUNDS

1. Introduction

1. This is the Claimant's Reply to the Defendant's Summary Grounds of Resistance.

2. The Reply proceeds on a single controlling issue which must be determined before any consideration of merits, discretion, alternative remedies, or delay.

3. That issue is jurisdictional. It concerns whether the matters complained of are judicial in nature, or whether they consist of administrative acts and omissions by the State and are therefore amenable to judicial review.

4. The Defendant's Summary Grounds do not engage with that issue in a legally coherent way. Instead, they rely on assertions of "judicial character" without identifying any judicial act said to have decided the matters challenged.

5. This Reply fixes the governing legal test at the outset and applies it systematically to the record.

2. Threshold Jurisdictional Incoherence

6. The Defendant's Summary Grounds proceed on an unstated and legally defective premise: that matters which arise in or are connected to court proceedings are necessarily "judicial" and therefore immune from judicial review.

7 That premise is wrong. The jurisdictional boundary between judicial and administrative action does not turn on context, forum, or subject matter. It turns on whether there exists a specific judicial act deciding the matter in question.

8 Where a matter has not been decided by a judge, by order or reasons, it cannot be characterised as judicial merely because it relates to litigation. Administrative acts and omissions by court staff, HMCTS, or the Ministry of Justice remain amenable to judicial review even where they occur in the shadow of proceedings.

9. The Defendant's Summary Grounds do not identify any judicial act deciding:

- the safeguarding, logging, custody, or escalation of Imerman material or devices;

- the continuation, review, or lawful withdrawal of participation measures or equality adjustments post-trial;

- the cancellation or cessation of Maintenance Pending Suit ("MPS");

- the administrative handling of repeated notifications of incapacity and inability to participate.

10. Instead, the Defendant relies on generalised assertions that these matters are "judicial", "arose in proceedings", or should have been pursued by appeal or application. Those assertions do not satisfy the legal test.

11. In the absence of an identified judicial act, the Defendant's characterisation collapses. What remains are administrative acts and omissions by the State, subject to continuing public law duties, and therefore amenable to judicial review.

3. Governing Jurisdictional Rule

12. The governing rule is simple and deterministic.

For each matter challenged, the Court must ask:

Is there a specific judicial act (judge, date, order or reasons) that decided it?

13. If the answer is yes, the matter is judicial in nature.

14. If the answer is no, the matter consists of administrative acts or omissions by the State and is amenable to judicial review.

15. There is no third category. Assertions, implications, or characterisations cannot substitute for identification of a judicial act.

4. Application of the Rule: Imerman Material, Devices, and Criminal Evidence

16. The Claimant's complaint concerning Imerman material and devices relates to the State's administrative handling of:

- safeguarding and custody;

- logging and record-keeping;
- escalation and oversight;
- responses to repeated notifications and requests.

17. The question required by law is therefore:

Which judicial act decided the safeguarding, logging, custody, or escalation of that material?

18. No such judicial act has been identified by the Defendant.

19. No order, reasons, or judicial determination addressing those matters appears in the record.

20. Applying the governing rule, the classification is unavoidable: these are administrative acts and omissions by the State, and they are amenable to judicial review.

5. Application of the Rule: Participation Measures and Equality Adjustments

21. The Claimant's case is not that a single historic decision was wrongful. It is that there has been a continuous failure since February/March 2024 to identify, record, maintain, or lawfully withdraw participation measures and equality adjustments for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable court user.

22. The duties engaged include those arising under:

- FPR Part 3A and PD3AA;
- the Equality Act 2010 (ss.20–21, 29);
- the Autism Act statutory guidance;
- the Public Sector Equality Duty (s.149 Equality Act 2010).

23. These are ongoing duties. They do not lapse with the end of trial and are not exhausted by one-off consideration.

24. The required question is therefore:

Which judicial act decided that participation measures and equality adjustments would cease post-trial, or that no further review or recording was required?

25. No such judicial act has been identified.

26. In the absence of an identified judicial act, the continued handling of participation and equality issues is administrative in nature and amenable to judicial review.

6. Neutral Chronology

27. To prevent further mischaracterisation, the Claimant relies on a Neutral Chronology derived directly from contemporaneous datasets and judicial history.

28. The chronology:

- begins at the end of trial on 28 February 2024;
- records repeated notifications of incapacity and inability to participate;
- records repeated requests relating to MPS and participation measures;
- records administrative responses, redirections, and absences of record;
- records travelling draft orders and sealing events;

- records repeated requests for copies of orders said to cancel participation measures and MPS, and the absence of any such orders;

- continues through the Court of Appeal period;

- records medical deterioration in 2025, including hospitalisations documented to the Court.

29. The chronology is relied upon solely to evidence notice, continuity, response gaps, and the absence of judicial acts, not to advance merits arguments.

7. Defendant's Propositions

30. The Defendant's Summary Grounds rely on propositions such as:

- the matters are judicial;

- the matters arose in proceedings;

- alternative remedies were available;

- the issues are historic or academic.

31. None of those propositions identifies a judicial act deciding the matters challenged.

32. Applying the governing rule, each proposition fails at the threshold.

8. Dataset and Expert Evidence

33. The Claimant has filed a structured dataset evidencing contemporaneous correspondence and administrative handling post-trial.

34. Given the technical and specialist nature of disability participation compliance, the Claimant has instructed an independent expert to review:

- what participation measures and adjustments were in fact maintained post-trial; and

- whether the State's administrative conduct complied with its continuing equality obligations.

35. That evidence is not sought to determine family law merits, but to enable the Court to assess administrative compliance with statutory duties. Without such assistance, there is a real risk of procedural unfairness.

9. Conclusion

36. The Defendant's Summary Grounds proceed on a mischaracterisation. They treat continuing administrative acts and omissions by the State as if they were judicial decisions, without identifying any judicial act capable of sustaining that classification.

37. The Court is invited to answer the threshold question required by law.

38. On the record, no judicial act has been identified. The matters complained of are administrative in nature and amenable to judicial review.

ANNEX 4

DATASET INDEX AND METHODOLOGY

Dataset Methodology (March–June 2024)

1. Scope

This dataset comprises contemporaneous email correspondence covering the period March to June 2024. The correspondence relates to court proceedings and associated administrative handling during that period.

2. Source material and extraction

Emails were captured in their native .eml format from the Claimant's email account. Each email was indexed into a structured Master Log. The dataset records, for each email, the following information where available:

- date,
- time,
- direction (incoming or outgoing),
- sender,
- recipient(s),
- carbon copy recipients,
- the verbatim email subject, and
- a short neutral description of the email content.

3. Attachment handling

Attachments were logged separately and linked to their parent email entry. For each attachment, the dataset records the filename as sent, MIME type, and file size.
Inline images, logos, email signatures, and tracking pixels commonly embedded in email footers were excluded, in order to avoid noise and the artificial inflation of attachment counts.

4. Ordering and identifiers

Each email has been assigned a unique reference identifier. The dataset is maintained in chronological order across the full March–June 2024 period, using the date and time metadata associated with each email.

5. Purpose of the index

This index is provided as a procedural aid at the permission stage only. It is not intended to advance substantive argument. Its purpose is to demonstrate the volume, continuity, and administrative complexity of the correspondence, and to explain why independent expert review is required to analyse the dataset fairly and systematically.

6. Dataset status and preservation

The dataset is frozen as of the end of June 2024. The full dataset and the underlying native files are preserved in a public repository maintained by the Claimant and are available for inspection or provision in document form should the Court require further examination.

STATEMENT OF UNDETERMINED MATTERS REQUIRING CONSTITUTIONAL CLARIFICATION

1. Transparency and Evidential Repository

To ensure transparency and continuity, I have established a publicly accessible evidential repository containing pleadings, correspondence, criminal referral transmissions, and source materials relating to Oxus and associated matters.

The repository includes documentation already relied upon in court proceedings, together with publicly reported material concerning Oxus, the Duke of York, and Kazakh-linked transactions that have recently re-entered public scrutiny.

Publicly available source material, including material emerging from the recently disclosed Epstein Files, has been identified and preserved within the repository. That material has not yet been the subject of full analytical review due to health constraints.

The repository exists to ensure that the evidential record remains independently accessible and verifiable.

2. Purpose of this Statement

This statement does not invite Parliament to determine facts, reassess judicial reasoning, or intervene in the merits of litigation.

It asks only whether formally raised matters may remain without identifiable judicial determination within the constitutional framework of the United Kingdom.

If a judicial act exists determining these matters, it should be identified by reference to judge, date, order, and reasons.

If no such act exists, the absence requires institutional acknowledgment.

3. The Structural Issue

Across multiple procedural stages, formally filed applications and documented issues were placed before the courts.

Those matters include:

- Participation measures under Part 3A,
- Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS) enforcement,
- Imerman device custody and review,
- The Oxus asset disclosure issue.

Each was formally raised.

Each was documented.

Each entered the judicial system through recognised procedural routes.

The procedural sequence is summarised in Annex 2 (Short Neutral Chronology), which records the absence of any identified judicial act determining participation measures or MPS following repeated formal notifications.

The question is not whether those matters were persuasive.

The question is whether they were determined.

4. Oxus – Absence of Identifiable Determination

Applications and submissions concerning the Oxus asset were formally filed and repeated across procedural stages.

Annex 1 records each procedural event.

No identifiable judicial act determining the Oxus issue by reference to judge, date, order, and reasons has been identified.

If such a determination exists, it should be specified.

If not, the matter remains procedurally unresolved.

5. Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)

A formal enforcement application (Form D50K) was filed while the order was operative.

Acknowledgment was issued.

Arrears were later remitted in the final order.

Annex 3 records the procedural sequence.

No identifiable judicial act determining the enforcement application prior to remission has been identified.

If such a determination exists, it should be identified.

If not, the enforcement issue was absorbed without adjudication.

6. Imerman Devices – Custody and Review

The Imerman devices were taken into custody and remained subject to correspondence concerning review, disclosure, and evidential relevance.

Requests for clarification and review were formally transmitted.

Annex 4 records the procedural history.

No identifiable judicial act determining custody, review, release, or evidential governance by reference to judge, date, order, and reasons has been identified.

If such a determination exists, it should be identified.

If not, custody and review remain undetermined.

7. The Constitutional Consequence

Where formally filed matters remain without identifiable judicial determination, the system shifts from adjudication to absorption.

This statement does not allege misconduct.

It identifies classification.

Either:

1. A judicial act exists determining each matter; or

2. No such act exists.

There is no third category.

If no determination exists, Parliament is asked to state whether continued absence of judicial determination in these circumstances is constitutionally acceptable.

8. Parliamentary Clarification Requested

Parliament is not asked to decide the merits of any issue.

Parliament is asked to clarify:

1. Whether formally filed applications may remain without identifiable judicial determination.

2. Whether remission of MPS arrears absent enforcement adjudication is constitutionally acceptable.

3. Whether custody and review of evidential material may persist without identifiable judicial act.

4. Whether repeated formal raising of an asset disclosure issue may remain without identifiable determination.

5. Whether such absence, if confirmed, is consistent with the constitutional operation of the justice system.

If determinations exist, they should be identified.

If they do not, Parliament must state whether that position is acceptable.

9. Conclusion

This is not a request for intervention in judicial reasoning.

It is a request for constitutional clarity.

Either identifiable judicial acts exist.

Or they do not.

If they do not, institutional ownership of that position is required.

MASTER CHRONOLOGY

Judicial Review AC-2025-LON-004293

Undetermined Matters of Public Interest

EXECUTIVE FRAME

This chronology identifies matters formally raised before courts or public authorities for which no identifiable judicial act (judge, date, order, and reasons) determining substance has been identified.

Across three pillars — OXUS, Digital Devices (Imerman), and Participation Measures — the same structural pattern emerges:

1. Issue formally raised
2. Evidence submitted
3. Procedural route engaged
4. No identifiable judicial determination of substance

PILLAR 1 — OXUS

Sworn Representation Under Oath

Core Question:

Did any court determine whether the sworn representation that OXUS was worth $0 was true or false?

Date	Court / Body	Event	Judicial Determination Identified?
7 Mar 2024	High Court (Family Division)	D11 application filed alleging false sworn statements regarding OXUS	No
18 Apr 2024	High Court (Family Division)	Final judgment delivered	No
29 Apr 2024	High Court (Family Division)	Permission to appeal refused (on the papers)	No
20 Jun 2024 / 23 Dec 2024	Court of Appeal	Appeal pursued; permission ultimately refused	No
18 Oct 2024 / 13 Feb 2025	High Court (Family Division)	Contempt application submitted / sealed	No

24 Jun 2025	Court of Appeal	CPR 52.30 re-open application sealed	No
4 Aug 2025	Court of Appeal	Re-open application refused	No

Binary Position:

No identifiable judicial act (judge, date, order, reasons) determining whether the sworn OXUS representation was true or false.

PILLAR 2 — DIGITAL DEVICES (IMERMAN MATERIAL)

Custody, Review, and Evidential Governance

Core Question:

Is there an identifiable judicial act determining custody, review, or evidential status of the digital devices and derived material?

Date	Event	Status	Judicial Determination Identified?
16 Apr 2021	Devices collected by courier	Held by custodians	No custody order identified
2022	Review suspended	Review deferred	No determination
22 Jun 2022	Solicitor correspondence invoking Imerman principles and review obligations	Review referenced	No judicial act
2023–2024	Criminal referral materials prepared and transmitted to public authorities	Devices contain alleged evidential material	No judicial determination
2024–2025	Requests for clarification of custody, review, and evidential status	Custody unresolved	No judicial act identified

Binary Position:

No identifiable judicial act determining custody, review, release, or evidential governance of the digital devices.

PILLAR 3 — PARTICIPATION MEASURES

Post-Trial Equality and Procedural Safeguards

Core Question:

Is there an identifiable judicial act determining post-trial participation measures?

Date / Period	Event	Judicial Act Identified?
28 Feb 2024	Trial concluded; participation measures operative at trial	No post-trial determination identified
Mar–Apr 2024	Notifications submitted regarding autism, PTSD, and ability to engage	No
Jun–Dec 2024	Continued correspondence concerning participation and procedural capacity	No identifiable judicial act
May 2025	Responses provided without identifying any order revoking participation measures	No

Binary Position:

No identifiable judicial act determining the continuation, variation, or withdrawal of post-trial participation measures has been identified.

STRUCTURAL PATTERN

Across all three pillars:

- Issues were formally raised.
- Evidence was submitted.
- Applications were filed.
- Appeals were pursued.
- Referrals were transmitted.

At no stage has an identifiable judicial act determined the substance of the matters raised.

Fragmentation across procedural tracks did not resolve the issues.
It redistributed them.

CONSTITUTIONAL BINARY

Either:

A. A judicial act exists (judge, date, order, reasons) determining these matters;

or

B. No such judicial act exists, and the matters remain undetermined.

There is no third category.

STATEMENT — UNDETERMINED MATTERS

Judicial Review: AC-2025-LON-004293

Zahmoul v Secretary of State for Justice & Ors

Date: 23 February 2026

Author: Nadia Zahmoul

Executive Summary

This statement identifies four formally raised judicial matters for which no identifiable judicial act (judge, date, order, and reasons) determining substance has been identified.

Those matters concern:

1. OXUS sworn financial representations under oath
2. Custody and evidential governance of digital devices (Imerman material)
3. Post-trial participation measures under FPR Part 3A
4. Associated procedural determinations raised through formal applications and referrals

On 19 February 2026, Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor was arrested on suspicion of misconduct in public office. His Majesty the King publicly affirmed:
“The law must take its course.”

This statement asks a single constitutional question:

Do identifiable judicial determinations exist resolving the matters formally raised?

If such determinations exist, they should be identified.

If they do not, the absence engages clear public interest.

Silence is not a resolution.

Determination is.

STATEMENT – UNDETERMINED MATTERS

On 19 February 2026, Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor was arrested on suspicion of misconduct in public office. His Majesty the King stated unequivocally: “the law must take its course.”

That public affirmation marks a constitutional inflection point.

On 16 February 2026, I issued a formal Statement of Undetermined Matters identifying four judicial matters that remain unresolved within Judicial Review AC-2025-LON-004293 against the Secretary of State for Justice. Those matters were supported by documentary evidence and formal applications distributed between December 2023 and January 2026.

Recent developments materially heighten the public interest in those undetermined issues.

For more than a decade, documented reporting and parliamentary debate have examined financial dealings involving Kazakhstan-linked actors operating at the intersection of sovereign relationships, public office and international finance. Hansard records concerns regarding “shady oligarchs” and corruption networks linked to the Nazarbayev era. Public reporting has established:

- The £15 million Sunninghill Park transaction involving Kazakh interests, later scrutinised in proceedings abroad concerning bribery-linked financial flows.
- An April 2011 email from Andrew, while UK Special Representative for Trade and Investment, directly engaging Kenes Rakishev in relation to a £385 million infrastructure proposal in Kazakhstan.
- Public statements by the Government’s Anti-Corruption Champion that proceeds-of-crime concerns required proper investigation.
- Renewed scrutiny following the January 2026 release of further Epstein-related materials.

These matters are documented.

Kenes Rakishev is not peripheral to this landscape. He has been referenced in parliamentary proceedings in connection with corruption concerns. He is a documented associate of Andrew in the transactions above. He is also the controlling shareholder of Oxus Acquisition Corp. (NASDAQ: OXUS), the entity whose financial representations lie at the centre of the undetermined matters in this Judicial Review.

The Review concerns, inter alia:

• Allegations of perjury and false representations under oath concerning OXUS financial disclosures.
• A High Court application filed 7 March 2024 seeking determination of those matters.
• A referral to the Attorney General dated 21 May 2025.
• A refusal to re-open proceedings dated 4 August 2025.
• The continuing absence of a specific judicial act resolving the substantive issues raised.

Separately, the Review addresses the custody and status of digital devices and associated evidential material. Hard-copy documents derived from those devices were referenced in conduct statements and oral evidence at trial. A structured criminal referral was prepared and distributed between December 2023 and January 2026 to relevant authorities.

The present status of those devices, the chain of custody, and whether the material has been judicially examined remain formally raised but undetermined.

This is not an assertion of motive.
It is not an allegation of coordination.
It is a question of determination.

Either a specific judicial act exists that determined the allegations concerning OXUS financial representations and associated evidential material, or it does not.

If such a determination exists, it should be identified.
If it does not, the absence of determination engages the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court.

In a constitutional moment where it has been publicly affirmed that no one is above the law, systemic non-determination of formally raised allegations concerning sworn financial disclosures, international financial structures and evidential custody engages clear public interest.

Silence is not a resolution.

Determination is.

The principle articulated on 19 February 2026 — that the law must take its course — applies consistently across rank, wealth and influence. This Judicial Review seeks confirmation that it has done so.

Claim No: AC-2025-LON-004293

v

Secretary of State for Justice & HMCTS

URGENCY NOTE

The Claimant respectfully requests urgent consideration of the attached Form N463 application.

Parallel proceedings are actively progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts of England and Wales, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

Those proceedings engage issues of delay, promptness and procedural regularity and may proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations that are directly in issue in this Judicial Review.

The present application seeks clarification as to whether any identifiable judicial act exists determining the matters pleaded in Grounds 1–5 of the claim.

If the Administrative Court does not clarify that question before the Chancery hearing proceeds, there is a real risk that parallel proceedings will proceed on implicit assumptions regarding determinations that may not exist.

This creates a risk of cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice.

The Claimant is a disabled court user, and the matters raised concern participation measures and related procedural protections.

For those reasons the Claimant respectfully requests that the Court consider the attached application urgently and in any event within 3 days.

Section 1 – Reasons for urgency

The Claimant applies for urgent directions and expedition.

Specifically:

1. Identification of any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons).

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable for determination.

3. Urgent consideration of permission and/or case management directions before 12 March 2026 due to safeguarding concerns and the imminent High Court hearing listed on that date.

Please see the attached Continuation Sheet.

2.2 Please provide reasons for any delay in making the application.

The need for this application arose upon confirmation that parallel proceedings in BL-2024-001217 are listed for hearing on 12 March 2026. Once that listing and its procedural implications became clear, the Claimant prepared this application promptly in order to seek clarification from the Administrative Court before that hearing proceeds.

2.3 What efforts have been made to put the defendant and any interested party on notice of the application?

The Defendants will be served with this application and the attached continuation sheets immediately upon filing through the Administrative Court Office and by email where appropriate. The matters raised in this application have already been extensively set out in the Claimant's Amended Grounds of Claim (2 January 2026), subsequent filings, and correspondence with the Court and Defendants.

Note 3: This will determine the time within which your application is referred for consideration.

Applications which do not need to be considered within 7 days should be made using form N244.

Section 4 – Grounds for Application

4.1 Set out the factual and/or legal grounds relied on in support of your application

This application seeks urgent procedural clarification in Judicial Review proceedings concerning the continued absence of any identifiable judicial act determining the matters pleaded in Grounds 1–5 of the claim.

The claim challenges administrative and procedural failures including the treatment of court-ordered participation measures, the handling and non-enforcement of Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS), the absence of recorded administrative decisions and audit trail, the administrative handling of material relating to Oxus and the Imerman devices, and the failure to consider the cumulative impact of those omissions.

Across these matters there remains no identifiable judicial determination (judge, date, order and reasons).

The application therefore seeks directions requiring the Defendants to identify any such judicial act if it exists, or otherwise confirming that the matters remain undetermined.

Urgent consideration is required because parallel proceedings are actively progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (BL-2024-001217), where a hearing is listed for 12 March 2026. Those proceedings may proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations that are directly in issue in this Judicial Review.

Further details are set out in the continuation sheets attached to this application.

Section 5 – Interim relief/directions and draft order

5.1 A draft order must be attached, which sets out the order the court is invited to make

5.2 State what interim relief and/or directions are sought and why

The Claimant seeks the following directions.

1. A direction that the Defendants identify any judicial act relied upon as determining the matters pleaded in Grounds 1–5 of the claim, specifying the judge, date, order and reasons.

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable for their determination within these proceedings.

3. Urgent consideration of the N461 permission application and related case management directions within 3 days.

These directions are sought because parallel proceedings are actively progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217), where a hearing is listed for 12 March 2026.

Clarification by the Administrative Court as to whether the matters raised in this Judicial Review have been judicially determined is required before that hearing proceeds in order to avoid cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice.

CONTINUATION SHEET
Form N463 – Urgent Application

CONTINUATION SHEET 1
Urgency and Request for Expedition

A. Nature of this Application

This application seeks clarification of whether any identifiable judicial act has determined the matters raised in this Judicial Review.

The Claimant applies for:

1. Identification of any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons).

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable or directions for their determination within these proceedings.

3. Expedition of permission and/or directions before 12 March 2026 on safeguarding and procedural fairness grounds.

This is a binary application.

Either an identifiable determination exists and can be identified precisely, or it does not.

There is no intermediate category. There is no implied determination.

B. Active Procedural Collision With Chancery Proceedings

Parallel proceedings are now actively progressing in:

High Court of Justice

Business & Property Courts of England & Wales

Chancery Division – Business List (ChD)

Claim No: BL-2024-001217

Those proceedings:

- Concern enforcement and set-aside issues;
- Proceed on procedural assumptions regarding prior determinations;
- Involve active listing and evidence exchange;
- Engage questions of delay, promptness, and procedural regularity.

If this Court does not determine whether an identifiable judicial act exists, the Chancery Division may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

That creates:

- Cross-court inconsistency;
- Structural incoherence;
- Risk of entrenched findings;
- Foreseeable prejudice.

This is not speculative. It is operational.

The Administrative Court must clarify jurisdictional boundaries before parallel proceedings harden.

CONTINUATION SHEET 2
Grounds of Claim and Undetermined Matters

C. The Pleaded Grounds and the Undetermined Matters

The claim is pleaded in five Grounds.

Ground 1 - Administrative revocation / non-operation of court-ordered protective measures

This Ground concerns two protective mechanisms that were live, court-ordered, and subsequently treated as ceased in practice without any identifiable judicial determination.

a) Participation Measures (Part 3A)

The Claimant is a disabled court user. Participation measures were identified and implemented during proceedings pursuant to Part 3A.

Those participation measures were subsequently treated by court administration as having ceased without any judicial determination, order, or recorded reasons, and without notice or hearing.

b) Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)

Payments due under a subsisting MPS order ceased in February 2024 and were not enforced in March–May 2024 despite repeated requests.
A remission paragraph was inserted into the final order dated 24 May 2024 without notice or hearing and without curing the prior period of non-enforcement.

Undetermined matter within Ground 1 (binary)

Has any identifiable judicial act determined the legality and/or lawful administrative basis for:

- treating participation measures as ceased or spent;
- failing to operate or enforce MPS;
- inserting retrospective remission without hearing?

Ground 2 - Absence of reasons and administrative audit trail

Across multiple matters raised, there is no identifiable administrative decision, recorded reasons, or traceable handling.

Undetermined matter within Ground 2 (binary)

Has any identifiable judicial or administrative act determined:

- what administrative decisions were taken;
- by whom;
- when;
- and on what reasons?

Ground 3 - Administrative non-handling of serious material (Oxus)

The claim challenges the administrative and procedural handling of serious material placed before the court, including documentary material, sworn statements, contemporaneous correspondence, and a formal contempt application.

Undetermined matter within Ground 3 (binary)

Despite the seriousness of the material, there is no identifiable administrative action, recorded decision, referral, audit trail, or reasoned response. Has any identifiable act determined:

- what administrative handling occurred (if any);
- why no recorded process exists?

Ground 4 - Administrative handling of Imerman devices

The claim challenges prolonged inaction, lack of escalation, and absence of recorded administrative decision explaining inaction.

Undetermined matter within Ground 4 (binary)

Has any identifiable act determined:

- the administrative status of the devices;
- the handling process;
- the accountability trail?

Ground 5 - Failure to consider cumulative impact

Failure to consider the cumulative impact of repeated omissions and administrative inaction on participation and access to recourse.

Undetermined matter within Ground 5 (binary)

Has any identifiable act determined:

- the cumulative impact of the omissions;
- the lawfulness of the overall administrative handling?

Conclusion

Across Grounds 1–5, the claim concerns administrative and procedural clarification at permission stage, including the continuing absence of any identifiable judicial act determining these matters.

CONTINUATION SHEET 3

Procedural Collision With Parallel Proceedings

Parallel proceedings are currently progressing in the High Court of Justice,
Business & Property Courts of England and Wales,
Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

Those proceedings engage issues of delay, promptness and procedural regularity and may therefore proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations arising from the underlying litigation.

The matters raised in this Judicial Review concern the absence of any identifiable judicial act determining several issues formally raised by the Claimant, including participation measures under FPR Part 3A, Maintenance Pending Suit, and the administrative handling of material placed before the court.

If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether any such judicial determination exists, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

That creates a risk of cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable procedural prejudice.

The Claimant therefore respectfully requests that the Court consider the present N463 application urgently and, if appropriate, before the hearing listed on 12 March 2026.

KEY ISSUE SUMMARY

This witness statement supports an urgent Form N463 application in Judicial Review claim AC-2025-LON-004293.

The application raises a single procedural question.

Either:

- an identifiable judicial act exists determining the matters raised in Grounds 1–5 of the claim (including judge, date, order and reasons),

or

- no such determination exists and the matters remain undetermined.

The Claimant has not been able to identify any such judicial act despite repeated applications and filings.

Parallel proceedings are currently progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether any such determination exists before that hearing proceeds, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions regarding prior determinations.

This creates a real risk of cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice.

For that reason, the Claimant respectfully requests urgent consideration of the N463 application.

Witness Statement

I, Nadia Zahmoul, the Claimant in these proceedings, state as follows.

1. Introduction

1. This statement supports the Claimant's urgent application under Form N463 seeking directions and expedition in Judicial Review claim AC-2025-LON-004293.

2. The application asks the Court to clarify whether any identifiable judicial act (judge, date, order and reasons) exists determining the matters raised in the pleaded grounds of claim.

3. If no such act exists, the Claimant seeks directions confirming that the matters remain live and undetermined and providing a timetable for their determination.

4. The Claimant also seeks urgent consideration of the application due to parallel proceedings currently progressing in the Business & Property Courts of England and Wales, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

5. A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

2. Background to the Judicial Review

6. The Judicial Review challenges administrative acts and omissions arising during and after proceedings in the Family Division of the High Court.

7. The claim concerns matters which have been repeatedly raised before the courts but which have not been determined by any identifiable judicial act.

8. These include:

- the administrative treatment of participation measures under FPR Part 3A
- the operation and enforcement of Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)
- the administrative handling of OXUS-related material
- the administrative handling of Imerman devices
- the cumulative impact of repeated procedural omissions affecting the Claimant's participation.

9. The claim therefore raises a binary procedural question.

10. Either an identifiable judicial act exists determining these matters, or it does not.

11. If such an act exists it can be identified precisely (judge, date, order and reasons). If it does not, the matters remain undetermined and require directions.

3. Participation measures and procedural impact

12. During the trial proceedings the Court ordered extensive participation measures in recognition of the Claimant's autism and PTSD.

13. Those measures enabled the Claimant to participate in proceedings and were treated as necessary safeguards.

14. In February 2024 those measures were treated in practice as having ceased.

15. The Claimant is not aware of any order, hearing or recorded reasons determining that those measures should cease.

16. Following the cessation of those measures the Claimant experienced significant difficulty participating effectively in subsequent proceedings.

17. This is not a rhetorical point. The absence of functioning safeguards materially affected the Claimant's ability to process, respond to and comply with complex procedural demands.

18. The Claimant's position is that this had direct procedural consequences affecting her ability to respond to matters arising after trial.

4. Litigation funding and subsequent claim

19. During the underlying litigation the Claimant obtained litigation funding in order to finance legal representation.

20. Following the cessation in practice of participation measures, the Claimant's ability to engage effectively with the procedural demands of the litigation deteriorated significantly.

21. Subsequently proceedings were issued against the Claimant in the Chancery Division (Claim No: BL-2024-001217) concerning liabilities arising from that litigation funding.

22. The Claimant disputes aspects of that liability and maintains that she has substantive defences available.

23. The Claimant's position is that her ability to properly defend those proceedings is closely connected to the procedural circumstances arising from the cessation of participation measures and the matters now raised in this Judicial Review.

5. Parallel Chancery proceedings

24. Parallel proceedings are now progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts of England & Wales, Chancery Division – Business List.

25. Those proceedings are listed before the Court on 12 March 2026.

26. Those proceedings necessarily engage issues of delay, promptness and procedural regularity.

27. They may therefore proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations arising from the underlying litigation.

28. Those matters overlap with the issues raised in this Judicial Review concerning the existence or absence of identifiable determinations.

29. If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether such determinations exist, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

30. This creates a real risk of:

- cross-court inconsistency
- structural incoherence between proceedings
- foreseeable procedural prejudice.

31. This risk is not speculative. The Chancery proceedings are actively progressing and involve procedural steps which may rely upon assumptions regarding prior determinations.

6. Absence of identifiable determinations

32. The Claimant has repeatedly requested identification of any judicial act determining the matters raised in the claim.

33. Despite extensive filings and applications, the Claimant has not been able to identify any order, judgment or recorded decision determining those matters.

34. The Claimant therefore seeks clarification from the Court as to whether any such determination exists.

7. Disability and safeguarding

35. The Claimant is an autistic litigant with diagnosed PTSD.

36. The Claimant has recently informed the Court that her health has deteriorated due to prolonged procedural uncertainty.

37. Medical evidence has been provided to the Court.

38. Prolonged procedural uncertainty is not neutral in its effect. The continued absence of procedural clarity has direct operational consequences for the Claimant's ability to understand the status of matters she has formally raised and to take appropriate procedural steps.

39. The Claimant respectfully submits that urgent procedural clarity is necessary in light of those safeguarding concerns.

8. Relief sought

40. The Claimant respectfully asks the Court to:

a) Identify any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons);

b) If none exists, confirm that the matters remain undetermined and provide directions for their determination;

c) Consider the application on an expedited basis, in light of the hearing listed on 12 March 2026.

Statement of Truth

I believe that the facts stated in this witness statement are true.

You must complete sections 1 to 5 and attach a draft order.

Section 1 – Reasons for urgency

The Claimant applies for urgent directions and expedition.

Specifically:

1. Identification of any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons).

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable for determination.

3. Urgent consideration of permission and/or case management directions before 12 March 2026 due to safeguarding concerns and the imminent High Court hearing listed on that date.

Please see the attached Continuation Sheet.

Section 2 – Justification for request for urgent consideration

2.1 Date and time when it was first appreciated that an urgent application might be necessary.

Time

2.2 Please provide reasons for any delay in making the application.

The need for this application arose upon confirmation that parallel proceedings in BL-2024-001217 are listed for hearing on 12 March 2026. Once that listing and its procedural implications became clear, the Claimant prepared this application promptly in order to seek clarification from the Administrative Court before that hearing proceeds.

2.3 What efforts have been made to put the defendant and any interested party on notice of the application?

The Defendants will be served with this application and the attached continuation sheets immediately upon filing through the Administrative Court Office and by email where appropriate. The matters raised in this application have already been extensively set out in the Claimant's Amended Grounds of Claim (2 January 2026), subsequent filings, and correspondence with the Court and Defendants.

Applications which do not need to be considered within 7 days should be made using form N244.

Section 4 – Grounds for Application

4.1 Set out the factual and/or legal grounds relied on in support of your application

This application seeks urgent procedural clarification in Judicial Review proceedings concerning the continued absence of any identifiable judicial act determining the matters pleaded in Grounds 1–5 of the claim.

The claim challenges administrative and procedural failures including the treatment of court-ordered participation measures, the handling and non-enforcement of Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS), the absence of recorded administrative decisions and audit trail, the administrative handling of material relating to Oxus and the Imerman devices, and the failure to consider the cumulative impact of those omissions.

Across these matters there remains no identifiable judicial determination (judge, date, order and reasons).

The application therefore seeks directions requiring the Defendants to identify any such judicial act if it exists, or otherwise confirming that the matters remain undetermined.

Urgent consideration is required because parallel proceedings are actively progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (BL-2024-001217), where a hearing is listed for 12 March 2026. Those proceedings may proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations that are directly in issue in this Judicial Review.

Expedition is therefore required in order to avoid cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice to the Claimant, a disabled court user.

Further details are set out in the continuation sheets attached to this application.

Section 5 – Interim relief/directions and draft order

5.1 A draft order must be attached, which sets out the order the court is invited to make

5.2 State what interim relief and/or directions are sought and why

The Claimant seeks the following directions.

1. A direction that the Defendants identify any judicial act relied upon as determining the matters pleaded in Grounds 1–5 of the claim, specifying the judge, date, order and reasons.

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable for their determination within these proceedings.

3. Urgent consideration of the N461 permission application and related case management directions within 3 days.

These directions are sought because parallel proceedings are actively progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217), where a hearing is listed for 12 March 2026.

Clarification by the Administrative Court as to whether the matters raised in this Judicial Review have been judicially determined is required before that hearing proceeds in order to avoid cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice.

CONTINUATION SHEET
Form N463 – Urgent Application

CONTINUATION SHEET 1
Urgency and Request for Expedition

A. Nature of this Application

This application seeks clarification of whether any identifiable judicial act has determined the matters raised in this Judicial Review.

The Claimant applies for:

1. Identification of any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons).

2. If no such judicial act exists, directions confirming that the matters remain undetermined and giving a timetable or directions for their determination within these proceedings.

3. Expedition of permission and/or directions before 12 March 2026 on safeguarding and procedural fairness grounds.

This is a binary application.

Either an identifiable determination exists and can be identified precisely, or it does not.

There is no intermediate category. There is no implied determination.

B. Active Procedural Collision With Chancery Proceedings

Parallel proceedings are now actively progressing in:

High Court of Justice

Business & Property Courts of England & Wales

Chancery Division – Business List (ChD)

Claim No: BL-2024-001217

Those proceedings:

- Concern enforcement and set-aside issues;
- Proceed on procedural assumptions regarding prior determinations;
- Involve active listing and evidence exchange;
- Engage questions of delay, promptness, and procedural regularity.

If this Court does not determine whether an identifiable judicial act exists, the Chancery Division may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

That creates:

- Cross-court inconsistency;
- Structural incoherence;
- Risk of entrenched findings;
- Foreseeable prejudice.

This is not speculative. It is operational.

The Administrative Court must clarify jurisdictional boundaries before parallel proceedings harden.

CONTINUATION SHEET 2
Grounds of Claim and Undetermined Matters

C. The Pleaded Grounds and the Undetermined Matters

The claim is pleaded in five Grounds.

Ground 1 - Administrative revocation / non-operation of court-ordered protective measures

This Ground concerns two protective mechanisms that were live, court-ordered, and subsequently treated as ceased in practice without any identifiable judicial determination.

a) Participation Measures (Part 3A)

The Claimant is a disabled court user. Participation measures were identified and implemented during proceedings pursuant to Part 3A.

Those participation measures were subsequently treated by court administration as having ceased without any judicial determination, order, or recorded reasons, and without notice or hearing.

b) Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)

Payments due under a subsisting MPS order ceased in February 2024 and were not enforced in March–May 2024 despite repeated requests.
A remission paragraph was inserted into the final order dated 24 May 2024 without notice or hearing and without curing the prior period of non-enforcement.

Undetermined matter within Ground 1 (binary)

Has any identifiable judicial act determined the legality and/or lawful administrative basis for:

- treating participation measures as ceased or spent;
- failing to operate or enforce MPS;
- inserting retrospective remission without hearing?

Ground 2 - Absence of reasons and administrative audit trail

Across multiple matters raised, there is no identifiable administrative decision, recorded reasons, or traceable handling.

Undetermined matter within Ground 2 (binary)

Has any identifiable judicial or administrative act determined:

- what administrative decisions were taken;
- by whom;
- when;
- and on what reasons?

Ground 3 - Administrative non-handling of serious material (Oxus)

The claim challenges the administrative and procedural handling of serious material placed before the court, including documentary material, sworn statements, contemporaneous correspondence, and a formal contempt application.

Undetermined matter within Ground 3 (binary)

Despite the seriousness of the material, there is no identifiable administrative action, recorded decision, referral, audit trail, or reasoned response. Has any identifiable act determined:

- what administrative handling occurred (if any);
- why no recorded process exists?

Ground 4 - Administrative handling of Imerman devices

The claim challenges prolonged inaction, lack of escalation, and absence of recorded administrative decision explaining inaction.

Undetermined matter within Ground 4 (binary)

Has any identifiable act determined:

- the administrative status of the devices;
- the handling process;
- the accountability trail?

Ground 5 - Failure to consider cumulative impact

Failure to consider the cumulative impact of repeated omissions and administrative inaction on participation and access to recourse.

Undetermined matter within Ground 5 (binary)

Has any identifiable act determined:

- the cumulative impact of the omissions;
- the lawfulness of the overall administrative handling?

Conclusion

Across Grounds 1–5, the claim concerns administrative and procedural clarification at permission stage, including the continuing absence of any identifiable judicial act determining these matters.

CONTINUATION SHEET 3

Procedural Collision With Parallel Proceedings

Parallel proceedings are currently progressing in the High Court of Justice,
Business & Property Courts of England and Wales,
Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

Those proceedings engage issues of delay, promptness and procedural regularity and may therefore proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations arising from the underlying litigation.

The matters raised in this Judicial Review concern the absence of any identifiable judicial act determining several issues formally raised by the Claimant, including participation measures under FPR Part 3A, Maintenance Pending Suit, and the administrative handling of material placed before the court.

If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether any such judicial determination exists, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

That creates a risk of cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable procedural prejudice.

The Claimant therefore respectfully requests that the Court consider the present N463 application urgently and, if appropriate, before the hearing listed on 12 March 2026.

KEY ISSUE SUMMARY

This witness statement supports an urgent Form N463 application in Judicial Review claim AC-2025-LON-004293.

The application raises a single procedural question.

Either:

- an identifiable judicial act exists determining the matters raised in Grounds 1–5 of the claim (including judge, date, order and reasons),

or

- no such determination exists and the matters remain undetermined.

The Claimant has not been able to identify any such judicial act despite repeated applications and filings.

Parallel proceedings are currently progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether any such determination exists before that hearing proceeds, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions regarding prior determinations.

This creates a real risk of cross-court inconsistency and foreseeable prejudice.

For that reason, the Claimant respectfully requests urgent consideration of the N463 application.

Witness Statement

I, Nadia Zahmoul, the Claimant in these proceedings, state as follows.

1. Introduction

1. This statement supports the Claimant's urgent application under Form N463 seeking directions and expedition in Judicial Review claim AC-2025-LON-004293.

2. The application asks the Court to clarify whether any identifiable judicial act (judge, date, order and reasons) exists determining the matters raised in the pleaded grounds of claim.

3. If no such act exists, the Claimant seeks directions confirming that the matters remain live and undetermined and providing a timetable for their determination.

4. The Claimant also seeks urgent consideration of the application due to parallel proceedings currently progressing in the Business & Property Courts of England and Wales, Chancery Division – Business List (Claim No: BL-2024-001217).

5. A hearing in those proceedings is listed for 12 March 2026.

2. Background to the Judicial Review

6. The Judicial Review challenges administrative acts and omissions arising during and after proceedings in the Family Division of the High Court.

7. The claim concerns matters which have been repeatedly raised before the courts but which have not been determined by any identifiable judicial act.

8. These include:

- the administrative treatment of participation measures under FPR Part 3A
- the operation and enforcement of Maintenance Pending Suit (MPS)
- the administrative handling of OXUS-related material
- the administrative handling of Imerman devices
- the cumulative impact of repeated procedural omissions affecting the Claimant's participation.

9. The claim therefore raises a binary procedural question.

10. Either an identifiable judicial act exists determining these matters, or it does not.

11. If such an act exists it can be identified precisely (judge, date, order and reasons). If it does not, the matters remain undetermined and require directions.

3. Participation measures and procedural impact

12. During the trial proceedings the Court ordered extensive participation measures in recognition of the Claimant's autism and PTSD.

13. Those measures enabled the Claimant to participate in proceedings and were treated as necessary safeguards.

14. In February 2024 those measures were treated in practice as having ceased.

15. The Claimant is not aware of any order, hearing or recorded reasons determining that those measures should cease.

16. Following the cessation of those measures the Claimant experienced significant difficulty participating effectively in subsequent proceedings.

17. This is not a rhetorical point. The absence of functioning safeguards materially affected the Claimant's ability to process, respond to and comply with complex procedural demands.

18. The Claimant's position is that this had direct procedural consequences affecting her ability to respond to matters arising after trial.

4. Litigation funding and subsequent claim

19. During the underlying litigation the Claimant obtained litigation funding in order to finance legal representation.

20. Following the cessation in practice of participation measures, the Claimant's ability to engage effectively with the procedural demands of the litigation deteriorated significantly.

21. Subsequently proceedings were issued against the Claimant in the Chancery Division (Claim No: BL-2024-001217) concerning liabilities arising from that litigation funding.

22. The Claimant disputes aspects of that liability and maintains that she has substantive defences available.

23. The Claimant's position is that her ability to properly defend those proceedings is closely connected to the procedural circumstances arising from the cessation of participation measures and the matters now raised in this Judicial Review.

5. Parallel Chancery proceedings

24. Parallel proceedings are now progressing in the High Court of Justice, Business & Property Courts of England & Wales, Chancery Division – Business List.

25. Those proceedings are listed before the Court on 12 March 2026.

26. Those proceedings necessarily engage issues of delay, promptness and procedural regularity.

27. They may therefore proceed on assumptions regarding prior determinations arising from the underlying litigation.

28. Those matters overlap with the issues raised in this Judicial Review concerning the existence or absence of identifiable determinations.

29. If the Administrative Court does not clarify whether such determinations exist, the Chancery proceedings may proceed on implicit assumptions that such determinations were made.

30. This creates a real risk of:

- cross-court inconsistency
- structural incoherence between proceedings
- foreseeable procedural prejudice.

31. This risk is not speculative. The Chancery proceedings are actively progressing and involve procedural steps which may rely upon assumptions regarding prior determinations.

6. Absence of identifiable determinations

32. The Claimant has repeatedly requested identification of any judicial act determining the matters raised in the claim.

33. Despite extensive filings and applications, the Claimant has not been able to identify any order, judgment or recorded decision determining those matters.

34. The Claimant therefore seeks clarification from the Court as to whether any such determination exists.

7. Disability and safeguarding

35. The Claimant is an autistic litigant with diagnosed PTSD.

36. The Claimant has recently informed the Court that her health has deteriorated due to prolonged procedural uncertainty.

37. Medical evidence has been provided to the Court.

38. Prolonged procedural uncertainty is not neutral in its effect. The continued absence of procedural clarity has direct operational consequences for the Claimant's ability to understand the status of matters she has formally raised and to take appropriate procedural steps.

39. The Claimant respectfully submits that urgent procedural clarity is necessary in light of those safeguarding concerns.

8. Relief sought

40. The Claimant respectfully asks the Court to:

a) Identify any judicial act said to determine the matters raised in this Judicial Review (judge, date, order and reasons);

b) If none exists, confirm that the matters remain undetermined and provide directions for their determination;

c) Consider the application on an expedited basis, in light of the hearing listed on 12 March 2026.

Statement of Truth

I believe that the facts stated in this witness statement are true.
