

PUBLIC RECORD — DAY 1 OF 7
Statement for the Press
Judicial Review AC-2025-LON-004293

This statement places on the public record five matters formally raised through court proceedings, parliamentary submissions, and criminal referral channels since February 2024. The attached document identifies each matter. No judicial determination has been identified for any of them.

At the heart of this matter is a discrepancy in sworn financial disclosure in connection with Oxus, a SPAC controlled by Kenes Rakishev, a Kazakh businessman with documented links to Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor.

Sworn financial statements lodged in February 2024 reported a value of $0. In contrast, contemporaneous SEC filings and Nasdaq market data indicate a value of approximately $565,000.

Despite repeated applications and a referral to the Attorney General, no explanation reconciling these positions has been placed on the public record to date, and no determination has been identified addressing the discrepancy.

A second issue concerns participation measures granted in recognition of autism and PTSD. These measures were treated as having been revoked in February 2024 without any identified judicial order, hearing, notification, or reasons.

Subsequent decisions and financial orders were taken in that context, without the claimant's effective participation. To date, no determination has been identified addressing the removal of the disability safeguards or its procedural impact. The harm is ongoing.

A third issue concerns digital evidence placed under court custody since April 2021, for which no chain of custody, governing order, or current status has been identified.

A further question arises in relation to institutional response. These matters have been formally raised through recognised procedures and placed on the Parliamentary record, yet no substantive engagement has been recorded.

PUBLIC RECORD — DAY 1 OF 7
Statement for the Press
Judicial Review AC-2025-LON-004293

A criminal referral relating to alleged misconduct in public office has been submitted to the Metropolitan Police through multiple channels. As at the date of this statement, no operational response has been recorded.

The cumulative effect is that a disabled litigant has pursued these matters without participation measures, without legal representation, and under conditions of acute financial hardship and housing instability. The issues remain live.

On 17 April 2026, a Metropolitan Police officer attended and confirmed that a safeguarding referral would be made (Ref. 0103/17APR26). A consultant psychiatrist at Chelsea and Westminster Hospital has indicated that a report will be provided addressing clinical deterioration and required safeguards for ongoing proceedings.

These matters remain unresolved. They are now placed on the public record in the absence of any identified determination or institutional response.

This is Day 1 of a 7-day series. Each subsequent statement will address one issue in detail.

A complete evidential record is publicly available.

<https://github.com/nadiazahmoul/Zahmoul-v-SSJ-HMCTS-Public-Archive>

Nadia Zahmoul

20 April 2026