Dear all,

This is Day 1 of a 7-day public record concerning Judicial Review AC-2025-LON-004293. Each statement addresses a distinct matter formally raised and not determined.

They include the removal of participation measures granted in recognition of autism and PTSD, without any identified judicial order, hearing, or reasons; a criminal referral to the Metropolitan Police; and a sworn financial representation that is contradicted by contemporaneous SEC filings and Nasdaq market information.

The financial disclosure relates to a SPAC controlled by Kenes Rakishev, a Kazakh businessman with documented links to Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor.

Since February 2024, these matters have been raised across court proceedings, parliamentary submissions, and criminal referral channels. No institution has substantively engaged. No determinations have been identified.

The attached statement provides a structured summary. A one-page overview of the five core matters is also attached. A submission and response chronology evidencing institutional handling across 61 formal submissions is included.

A complete evidential record is available in the public archive:

Further material will follow, one issue per day.

Kind regards,

Nadia Zahmoul
