CLAIMANT’S REPLY TO THE DEFENDANT’S SUMMARY GROUNDS

1. Introduction

1. This is the Claimant’s Reply to the Defendant’s Summary Grounds of Resistance.
2. The Reply proceeds on a single controlling issue which must be determined before any consideration of merits, discretion, alternative remedies, or delay.

3. That issue is jurisdictional. It concerns whether the matters complained of are judicial in nature, or whether they consist of administrative acts and omissions by the State and are therefore amenable to judicial review.
4. The Defendant's Summary Grounds do not engage with that issue in a legally coherent way. Instead, they rely on assertions of "judicial character" without identifying any judicial act said to have decided the matters challenged.
5. This Reply fixes the governing legal test at the outset and applies it systematically to the record.

2. Threshold Jurisdictional Incoherence

6. The Defendant's Summary Grounds proceed on an unstated and legally defective premise: that matters which arise in or are connected to court proceedings are necessarily "judicial" and therefore immune from judicial review.
- 7 That premise is wrong. The jurisdictional boundary between judicial and administrative action does not turn on context, forum, or subject matter. It turns on whether there exists a specific judicial act deciding the matter in question.
- 8 Where a matter has not been decided by a judge, by order or reasons, it cannot be characterised as judicial merely because it relates to litigation. Administrative acts and omissions by court staff, HMCTS, or the Ministry of Justice remain amenable to judicial review even where they occur in the shadow of proceedings.

9. The Defendant's Summary Grounds do not identify any judicial act deciding:

- the safeguarding, logging, custody, or escalation of Imerman material or devices;
- the continuation, review, or lawful withdrawal of participation measures or equality adjustments post-trial;
- the cancellation or cessation of Maintenance Pending Suit ("MPS");
- the administrative handling of repeated notifications of incapacity and inability to participate.

10. Instead, the Defendant relies on generalised assertions that these matters are "judicial", "arose in proceedings", or should have been pursued by appeal or application. Those assertions do not satisfy the legal test.

11. In the absence of an identified judicial act, the Defendant's characterisation collapses. What remains are administrative acts and omissions by the State, subject to continuing public law duties, and therefore amenable to judicial review.

3. Governing Jurisdictional Rule

12. The governing rule is simple and deterministic.

For each matter challenged, the Court must ask:

Is there a specific judicial act (judge, date, order or reasons) that decided it?

13. If the answer is yes, the matter is judicial in nature.

14. If the answer is no, the matter consists of administrative acts or omissions by the State and is amenable to judicial review.

15. There is no third category. Assertions, implications, or characterisations cannot substitute for identification of a judicial act.

4. Application of the Rule: Imerman Material, Devices, and Criminal Evidence

16. The Claimant's complaint concerning Imerman material and devices relates to the State's administrative handling of:

- safeguarding and custody;

- logging and record-keeping;
- escalation and oversight;
- responses to repeated notifications and requests.

17. The question required by law is therefore:

Which judicial act decided the safeguarding, logging, custody, or escalation of that material?

18. No such judicial act has been identified by the Defendant.

19. No order, reasons, or judicial determination addressing those matters appears in the record.

20. Applying the governing rule, the classification is unavoidable: these are administrative acts and omissions by the State, and they are amenable to judicial review.

5. Application of the Rule: Participation Measures and Equality Adjustments

21. The Claimant's case is not that a single historic decision was wrongful. It is that there has been a continuous failure since February/March 2024 to identify, record, maintain, or lawfully withdraw participation measures and equality adjustments for an autistic and PTSD-vulnerable court user.

22. The duties engaged include those arising under:

- FPR Part 3A and PD3AA;
- the Equality Act 2010 (ss.20–21, 29);
- the Autism Act statutory guidance;
- the Public Sector Equality Duty (s.149 Equality Act 2010).

23. These are ongoing duties. They do not lapse with the end of trial and are not exhausted by one-off consideration.

24. The required question is therefore:

Which judicial act decided that participation measures and equality adjustments would cease post-trial, or that no further review or recording was required?

25. No such judicial act has been identified.

26. In the absence of an identified judicial act, the continued handling of participation and equality issues is administrative in nature and amenable to judicial review.

6. Neutral Chronology

27. To prevent further mischaracterisation, the Claimant relies on a Neutral Chronology derived directly from contemporaneous datasets and judicial history.

28. The chronology:

- begins at the end of trial on 28 February 2024;
- records repeated notifications of incapacity and inability to participate;
- records repeated requests relating to MPS and participation measures;
- records administrative responses, redirections, and absences of record;
- records travelling draft orders and sealing events;

- records repeated requests for copies of orders said to cancel participation measures and MPS, and the absence of any such orders;
- continues through the Court of Appeal period;
- records medical deterioration in 2025, including hospitalisations documented to the Court.

29. The chronology is relied upon solely to evidence notice, continuity, response gaps, and the absence of judicial acts, not to advance merits arguments.

7. Defendant's Propositions

30. The Defendant's Summary Grounds rely on propositions such as:

- the matters are judicial;
- the matters arose in proceedings;
- alternative remedies were available;
- the issues are historic or academic.

31. None of those propositions identifies a judicial act deciding the matters challenged.

32. Applying the governing rule, each proposition fails at the threshold.

8. Dataset and Expert Evidence

33. The Claimant has filed a structured dataset evidencing contemporaneous correspondence and administrative handling post-trial.

34. Given the technical and specialist nature of disability participation compliance, the Claimant has instructed an independent expert to review:

- what participation measures and adjustments were in fact maintained post-trial; and
- whether the State's administrative conduct complied with its continuing equality obligations.

35. That evidence is not sought to determine family law merits, but to enable the Court to assess administrative compliance with statutory duties. Without such assistance, there is a real risk of procedural unfairness.

9. Conclusion

36. The Defendant's Summary Grounds proceed on a mischaracterisation. They treat continuing administrative acts and omissions by the State as if they were judicial decisions, without identifying any judicial act capable of sustaining that classification.

37. The Court is invited to answer the threshold question required by law.

38. On the record, no judicial act has been identified. The matters complained of are administrative in nature and amenable to judicial review.

ANNEX 4

DATASET INDEX AND METHODOLOGY

Dataset Methodology (March–June 2024)

1. Scope

This dataset comprises contemporaneous email correspondence covering the period March to June 2024. The correspondence relates to court proceedings and associated administrative handling during that period.

2. Source material and extraction

Emails were captured in their native .eml format from the Claimant’s email account. Each email was indexed into a structured Master Log. The dataset records, for each email, the following information where available:

- date,
- time,
- direction (incoming or outgoing),
- sender,
- recipient(s),
- carbon copy recipients,
- the verbatim email subject, and
- a short neutral description of the email content.

3. Attachment handling

Attachments were logged separately and linked to their parent email entry. For each attachment, the dataset records the filename as sent, MIME type, and file size.

Inline images, logos, email signatures, and tracking pixels commonly embedded in email footers were excluded, in order to avoid noise and the artificial inflation of attachment counts.

4. Ordering and identifiers

Each email has been assigned a unique reference identifier. The dataset is maintained in chronological order across the full March–June 2024 period, using the date and time metadata associated with each email.

5. Purpose of the index

This index is provided as a procedural aid at the permission stage only. It is not intended to advance substantive argument. Its purpose is to demonstrate the volume, continuity, and administrative complexity of the correspondence, and to explain why independent expert review is required to analyse the dataset fairly and systematically.

6. Dataset status and preservation

The dataset is frozen as of the end of June 2024. The full dataset and the underlying native files are preserved in a public repository maintained by the Claimant and are available for inspection or provision in document form should the Court require further examination.
